Administration

—BY—

Nancy Wagner

It is a difficult job to keep the Enid schools running, and this task all falls on the shoulders of seven outstanding citizens, the Board of Education. The board members work to give the students of Enid schools the best opportunity for modern education possible. Although their work is entirely voluntary and without pay, they give their time and energy in making this "a better Enid."

Each member of the board is elected for a term of four years with elections being held every two years. Four members are elected at one time, and three at the next election.

Except for one, who is elected at large, the board members are elected from the six Enid wards. Those now serving are: Cleo Fisher, President; Frank Marquis, Vice-President; and Albert W. Braithwaite, Dave Bucher, Mrs. E. A. Mayberry, Mrs. Clyde E. Pinkerton, and E. G. Wilmoth, who is finishing the unexpired term of the late Beryl Knox. The treasurer, Mr. Henry H. Davis, is also elected at large every four years.

The first Monday of each month, as required by a state law, is the time of the regular board meetings. Any special meetings are called by the president.

To aid business transactions, the board has employed Martin H. Miller, as Clerk; Lou Ella Wolff, Secretary; Charles W. Carroll, Auditor; and Paul Edwards, Attorney. The actual administration of the board is done by DeWitt Waller, Superintendent of Schools. Mr. Waller offers recommendations and proposals to the board and carries out their decisions.

The board is divided into six committees with three members serving on each. The committees include: the Building and Grounds Committee with Albert Braithwaite, as chairman; and Frank Marquis, and Mrs. E. A. Mayberry, members. The Insurance Committee is headed by E. G. Wilmoth with Dave Bucher and Mrs. Clyde E. Pinkerton as members.

The Purchasing Committee has Dave Bucher as its chairman with E. G. Wilmoth and Albert Braithwaite, as members. Frank Marquis, Chairman, Albert Braithwaite and Dave Bucher make up the Custodians Committee.

The Teachers Committee is composed of Mrs. Clyde E. Pinkerton, Chairman; and Mrs. E. A. Mayberry and E. G. Wilmoth, members. The Finance Committee is headed by Mrs. E. A. Mayberry, with Frank Marquis and Mrs. Clyde E. Pinkerton as members.

Executives

—BY—

Sara Lou Wells and Fern Davidson

Two contrasting, but equally efficient, personalities play leading roles in the education of the youth of Enid, DeWitt Waller, Superintendent of Schools, and D. Bruce Selby, Principal of Enid High.

An unobservant glance at DeWitt Waller might make you believe that he had always been the efficient, quiet, and dignified executive that he is now. But a look into the kind brown eyes of Mr. Waller would let you know that more than calm efficiency has dominated his life.

You find here fond memories of a boyhood spent in a Mason, Texas parsonage, as the son of a Methodist minister. Later, after graduation from Peacock Military school, Mr. Waller received his batchelor's degree from Epworth University, now Oklahoma City University, and his master's degree from the University of Missouri.

Even now, when Mr. Waller looks at his two young grandsons, Doug and David Kudravetz, he must look forward to the day when they can take as active a part in sports as he once did. He was all-southwestern center of college football and was a member of the varsity baseball squad.

Mr. Waller's first service to the Enid community was the "triple-duty" of math and science instructor and coaching athletics at Enid High. At this time, 1911, coaching included football, basketball, baseball and track teams for one coach. This early interest in sports and other school activities is probably the reason that Mr. Waller takes such an active interest in Enid High's sports and various other school activities.

MR. DEWITT WALLER, Superintendent

Well deserved confidence of his colleagues was shown when Mr. Waller was appointed to the advisory boards of the Carnegie library, Boy Scouts of America, and the Salvation Army. The versatility of a good leader is displayed in the fact that Mr. Waller is an active member of the Lion's club, Masons, and the Hi-Twelve club, and the First Methodist Church.

In appreciation of, not only the efficiency, but also the sincere, kind, and understanding individual leadership, Mr. Waller was honored by the Enid Chamber of Commerce and his friends and associates this year for forty years of service to the Enid Public School system. Among the more than 500 guests were fifteen members of his first football teams to pay tribute to "the coach," his fellow-members of the Lion's club, representatives from other civic clubs, former students, administrators from over the state, and the entire faculty of the Enid School system. Among the honors and gifts of recognition presented him were: Distinguished Service Award from the Oklahoma Education Association, with Miss Inez Gingerich, president, making the presentation; Athletic Citation Award from the Oklahoma H. S. Athletic Association, with D. Bruce Selby, member of the Board of Control for that organization, making the presentation; a television set presented as a gift of appreciation from his entire teaching staff, presented by Miss Louise Major, president of the Enid Education Association; and as a final climax, two aeroplane tickets for an all-expense trip to Mr. and Mrs. Waller to Mexico City for the Lions convention in July by the Enid Chamber of Commerce, with Dr. Ray Snodgrass, making the presentation. Martin Garber was master of ceremonies.

Mr. Waller's family in addition to Mrs. Waller includes two daughters, Barbara, Mrs. George Kudravetz, who with her husband, Major George Kudravetz, and two sons, Doug and David, lives in Dayton, Ohio, and Marilyn, who lives at home, and who is the Enid Campfire Executive.

The 1951 edition of the Enid Plainsmen was impressive for a squad mostly of Sophomores and Juniors who had a record of five wins, four losses and one tie, one of the losses against a team that went to the finals in the state tournament.

Two new coaches were added to the staff this year: Coach Joe Gibson from Electra, Texas, a former assistant football coach at the University of Corpus Christi, and Coach Joe Leach from Shreveport, Louisiana and a former letterman at Louisiana State.

The Plainsmen started their season with four home-stands, the first against the always-tough Perry Maroons. Both clubs showed the traditional first game shakes. It was Enid who showed the first real initiative as Daymond Myers, Jerry Haskins, DeRoose Raymond and Aubrey Bristow broke through in the second quarter to bring the pigskin down to the Maroon two-yard line. In the only scoring play of the night Myers smashed over to shoot the Enid eleven ahead 6-0. The conversion attempt was blocked. A second half passing attack launched by the desperate Maroons nearly sank the Plainsmen as Bill Pricer and Joe McQuain brought the ball down to the Enid four-yard line as the final whistle blew.

The final score stood Enid 6, Perry 0.

The following Friday the Plainsmen entertained a strong aggregation from Putnam City. A jam packed crowd of 4,000 shivered in the cold to cheer the Plainsmen to their tightest victory of the season. The Pirates drew first blood midway in the first quarter on a 56-yard march to go ahead 6-0. Again the attackers scored with but one minute gone in the second quarter to lead 13-0 in what looked like the beginning of a complete rout. But the blue and white came out of it to roar down the field with only three minutes left in the second quarter to tally on a handoff play covering 29 yards. Moments later the Plainsmen showed it was no mistake as they tied it up in the first half 13-13 on a spot pass from Aubrey Bristow to Daymond Myers good for 28 yards and an even break at halftime.

In the third period Enid continued their hot pace and went into the lead on a Bristow to Rip Radcliff aerial from 25 yards out. The third period score read 20-13, Enid.

A last minute touchdown by the Pirates nearly upset the Plainsmen applecart as George Day, the alert Putnam City quarterback, pushed his way over from the four-yard line with but seconds to go. The Enid line dug in and blocked the all-important conversion and salvaged a slim victory.

The powerful Norman Tigers were next on the Plainsmen list, bringing a strong aggregation of record spoilers.

The first Plainsman tally was set up on a Tiger fumble on their own 25-yard line. On the very next play Aubrey Bristow fired an aerial to Daymond Myers good for 24 yards to the Plainsmen one. DeRoose Raymond carried the mail for the needed yard and ar. Enid TD. The conversion was blocked and Enid held a first quarter lead of 6-0.

The Tigers struck like lightning in the second period on a series of ground eating power plays featuring Fred Hazel and J. E. Hatfield to take a 13-6 halftime lead.

Wasting no time the Tigers showed their intentions in the second half as Fred Hazel took the opening kickoff and returned it 65 yards to shoot Norman into a 20-6 lead. Enid countered moments later with Don Thomas recovering a Tiger fumble on their 12-yard line. Don Froese gathered in the pigskin on the next play to go over standing up.

Norman added the clincher in the fourth quarter on what was perhaps the slickest play of the game. DeRoose Raymond punted a short kick from his own 27. It was gathered in by J. E. Hatfield who handed it off to Fred Hazel fading toward the sidelines. Hazel gathered it in and streaked for the tally untouched. The Plainsmen packed in their second largest crowd of the season with an overflow crowd of 5,000 attending.

The game was highlighted at the halftime with the crowning of the 1951-52 Band Queen, Kae Major. Leonard Atkinson did the honors.

For the fourth straight week Enid had a home game entertaining the Shawnee Wolves. Enid could do nothing wrong as they soundly trounced the visiting Wolves 28 to 12. On the first play from scrimmage Halfback Daymond Myers skirted his left end for 65 yards to the Shawnee one. Shawnee's stalwart line held, and they kicked out to their own 30. Enid again took over, and Myers carried over from the 10 in four plays. Froese converted and the locals were ahead to stay. A few minutes later DeRoose Raymond added another tally for the Plainsmen cause on a 25-yard keeper. In the waning moments of the initial quarter the Wolves retaliated with Bill Lowry faking a pitchout on his own 26 and romping 74 yards to go over unmolested.

Shawnee continued their scoring ways in the opening seconds of the second quarter scoring a TD on three plays to make the score at halftime 13 to 12, Plainsmen.

That was all she wrote for the visiting Wolves as Enid caught fire in the second half. Enid took the kickoff on their own 12 and were on the Shawnee 17 in eight plays. Don Sloan carried the mail, and the local eleven held a 20-12 lead. Later in the same quarter the Plainsmen had the Wolves cornered deep in their own territory. A bad center went past the receiver, and the ball bounced out of the Wolves' end zone.

Enid clinched the conference game in the fourth stanza when alert Lineman Charles Purnell intercepted a Shawnee pass and romped the remaining 20 yards for the final score.

The following Friday night the blue and white trekked to Oklahoma City to meet the powerful Central Cardinals. The Plainsmen with mostly Sophomore representatives plowed the Cardinals under with a devastating passing attack to annex their second conference victory 13 to 0.

After a scoreless initial stanza the Enid eleven began to click. John Bell took a Bristow pass on the Central 27 and plowed his way to the four. Three plays later Don Sloan gathered in another Bristow toss to garner six points for the Plainsmen. The conversion attempt was no good.

The Plainsmen added the clincher early in the third period. DeRoose Raymond gathered in a pitch from Aubrey Bristow on the Enid 23 and broke loose for 73 yards and an Enid tally. Haskins converted.

The next week the Redskins from Capitol Hill invaded the local camp in a game that saw two entirely different offensives. Capitol Hill drew the first blood in the last five minutes of the first quarter scoring two touchdowns. The Redskins led at the first quarter mark 13-0.

In the second quarter with the Plainsmen trailing 20 to 0 following a fluke TD by the Redskins' Bobby Darr, Rip Radcliff took a Bristow pass on the Enid 47, shook off two would-be tacklers and galloped 53 yards for the touchdown. Capitol Hill retaliated a few moments later to make the halftime score read 26 to 6, Redskins. From there on it was all Oklahoma City as the Mid-State champions added on more score in the third quarter to wrap up the contest. Enid's TD in the fourth period was not enough to catch the Redskins. The final, Capitol Hill 33, Enid 13.

The same fate befell the Plainsmen at Ponca City the next week as the Wildcats led by All-State Krider triumphed 32 to 6 in a game played in drizzling rain.

The Plainsmen took the initiative early in the first quarter as a Bristow to Raymond pass was good for 22 yards and a touchdown. Ponca rebounded with a 73-yard drive climaxed by Tom Selbey to make the score even at the first quarter mark 6-6.

That was it as far as Enid was concerned. The Cats began in earnest at the second quarter whistle as big Jim Krider went wild scoring three touchdowns, one of them on a 60-yard sprint. The score at halftime read 26 to 6, Ponca.

Ponca added another score in the third stanza to ice it and the Plainsmen were on the short end two weeks in a row.

With a record of 4 wins and 3 losses under their belts the Plainsmen journeyed to Taft stadium to do battle with the Classen Comets in a game won by ice and snow. The two teams banged to a 13-13 tie.

In the second quarter Rip Radcliff gathered in a Bristow pass on the Enid 40-yard line and raced 60 yards down the middle to go over the double stripe unmolested to put the Plainsmen out in front 6-0.

Classen opened up the second half with a devastating passing attack to score on nine plays with Tom Murphy scoring on a pass from Jim Miskowsky.

In the finale Classen forged ahead on the fourth play on a keeper by George Miskowsky. With time running out and things looking black in the blue and white camp, Daymond Myers took a handoff from Aubrey Bristow, skirted his right end and scored behind the beautiful blocking of Don Froese. Haskins converted to knot the count.

The homecoming game highlighted the next week's activities. The Plainsmen entertained the Northeast Vikings on the home field on the last game at home. Rip Radcliff, the big Enid left end, turned in one

Assemblies

—BY—

Meme Cromwell and Shirley Holt

During the first week of school, Enid High students heard from the new coaches concerning the condition of the football squad at the first assembly of the '51-'52 term held in the Education Building.

The formal opening of each assembly was performed by members of the Student Council with President Franklin Cooper presiding. Miss Pat Armould, Miss Laura Milam, Miss Ruth Moore, Miss Maurine Morrow, Miss Ruth Scott, Mrs. Nellie McCreary, D. Bruce Selby, Harold Duckett, and G. Ray Bonham deserve orchids for their well-spent time on the faculty assembly committees.

Among the fall assemblies we remember best are: D. Bruce Selby's rope tricks, Bravette skits, the football team on the field running plays with Coach Gibson narrating, the cheerleaders' efforts, and the Student Council's example of "Roberts Rules of Order."

Enid High was privileged to have Roe Bartle, nationally known Boy Scout executive, banker, and world-wide traveler, in one of the best assemblies of the year. Mr. Bartle has a booming voice and a dynamic personality which kept his audience hypnotized throughout his talk on Americanism, citizenship, and our opportunities in school.

With John Dykes emceeing, the initial request assembly went off with a bang. Hillbillies Drue Meloy and Carole Gungoll sang "Philadelphia Lawyer," Ronald Bobbitt played "Deep Purple," Evelyn Leachman danced to "Top Secret." "Panhandle Rag" and "Quicksilver" were strummed by steel guitarists Jack Ritter and Neil Myers. Bill Patrick mystified the audience with two tricks, while "Because of You" was crooned by David Tarpenning, and Norma Jean Hoover's reading "The Speech Teacher's Nightmare," and "Amateur Gum-chewing," which was done in characterization, showed that Enid High not only had a quantity of talent but also quality.

The Enid High mixed chorus was in excellent voice as they sang in two assemblies first semester. Before Thanksgiving "Ole Mose Put Pharoah in His Place" and "Gloria In Excelsis" were presented with a talk concerning "American Education Week" by DeWitt Waller, superintendent of schools. As the Yuletide season drew near "Song of Christmas" and "Hallelujah Chorus" were given by the chorus in connection with the nativity scene portrayed by the drama class.

Perhaps the Armistice Day assembly was the most impressive of the many asemblies during the year. The speech department's selection of "They Serve Who Only Stand and Wait" was appropriate while Mr. Selby read the American Legion Dedication for the formal presentation of the flag which flies in front of our building. "Taps" was played by Bill Shore for all war dead and going back to classes, we seemed to grasp a new and deeper meaning of this thing called war.

In a lighter mood, the Christmas band assembly jingled its merry way through such numbers as "Christmas Moods," "Sleigh Ride," "Rudolph, the Red-nosed Reindeer," "Frosty the Snowman" and "Here Comes Santa Claus." As a featured soloist, Vida Chenoweth played on the marimba.

Second semester two programs by the radio class were heard over the P.A. One was of a humorous nature while the other had the more serious nature of "Brotherhood" after which the Washington elm tree, a gift of John Vater and H. B. Bass, was planted by the student body and class officers in front of the building.

One of the most popular assemblies of the year was a "community sing" put on by the mixed chorus. The students were led by the chorus as they sang such popular numbers as "Slowpoke," "Cry," "Because of You," "Down Yonder," "The Little White Cloud That Cried," "Sin," "Tell Me Why," and "It Is No Secret." The Teen Town Band played several modern selections, and Helen Mudgett closed this assembly with her interpretations of "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Prelude in A Sharp."

The request assembly was such a success that we had a repeater. Dick McKnight announced as Richard Merritt tooted out "Lassus Trombone." Betty Smith sang "My Johann," Narda Wilcox danced acrobatically to "Stardust," Dick Godschalk jazzed his way through an original composition, Berna Lou Byers sang "Never" and "The Lovliest Night of the Year," Marie Dudley twirled to the march "Washington Post" and Jon Caton crooned "Please, Mr. Sun," and "Slowpoke."

The "American Patrol" never sounded like that before! A Los Angeles blind boy made sounds come from an organ that we never knew could be imitated. A girl from Wichita, Kansas, also blind, sang "Italian Street Song." Then the boy played any number the students requested. This program was sponsored by "Books for the Blind" a free-will offering was taken up for the procuring of braille editons for the blind.

Probably the most excited we ever got at an assembly was the Monday morning after our basketball team became the State Champions. "Let 'er rip, let 'er roar!" could never again be roared so loud. After we calmed down so Mr. Selby could be heard, all the coaches and the boys on the team were introduced individually. Mr. Waller was there to congratulate us, and setting on a table in front of the team was the tall, gleaming, gold trophy. There was wild

ALL SCHOOL PLAY

"The Green Pastures"

—BY—

Earl Jane Whisler

From the passing of the first miracle, De Lawd gave the audience of the 1951 All-School Play an introduction into an evening of the merriest interpretation of the Bible ever produced. The play, Marc Connelly's Pulitzer prize winner, "The Green Pastures," was presented on the stage of the Education Building, Friday, November 30. This play tells the Bible stories of the Old and New Testaments as they might be explained by a small Negro girl and contained the largest cast ever presented in an Enid High production with all the characters, including De Lawd, portrayed as Negroes.

The play wound its way through the Bible picking up the important stories and presenting them with humor, giving all of De Lawd's problems with His world the spotlight.

The opening scene was a great Heavenly fish fry with the Angels in attendance. It was during this festivity that De Lawd found it necessary to create Earth and to populate it with Man. Then he paid a visit to Adam and gave him his mate, Eve.

As the years on earth passed, De Lawd found his problems increasing as the population increased. When he saw there was too much evil, he commissioned Noah to build his ark. Noah and his family built the ark amidst the tauntings of their friends and neighbors and were still safe when the flood ended.

Again as the years passed, there was trouble on earth; his people were enslaved by the Egyptians, and he wanted them set free. He visited Moses and gave him the power to convince Pharaoh to set the people free. The finding of the Promised Land by the scouts ended the journey for Moses, and he gave the leadership to his young partner, Joshua. De Lawd came for Moses and took him from the earth.

The next visit of De Lawd was made to a cabaret where He found the King and his High Priest. He was indignant at the murder of a prophet and He condemned the people for their wickedness.

The final scene was another Heavenly fish fry with all the Angels present. The occasion wasn't as gay as before; they were watching the Crucifixion from their place in the Heavens.

play, "It was a quick summary of the Old and New Testaments from Creation to the Crucifixion as imagined within the limited experience of a little Negro girl picturing her Sunday School lessons."

In addition to the 218 students the departments and faculty advisors who assisted in the presentation were: Hudson Wilcox, director; Miss Maurine Morrow, vocal director; G. Ray Bonham, instrumental director; Miss Pat Armould, dance director; V. O. Marshall, business manager; Miss Katherine Bales, art director; Miss Ellen Correll, costumes; Jack McDaniel, chemical effects; Miss Ruth Scott, publicity; Herbert A. Seem, printing, and Lou Sherman, stage.

Appreciation of the play was shown when it became necessary to present the play December 1 for a second night in addition to the regular performance. Both nights the play was received by an enthusiastic and well entertained audience.

Library Club Sponsors Open House Hobby Show

The Library Club was one of the most active organizations all this year. Mrs. Pauline Means was the new librarian, and the club officers for the first semester were Billy Webb, President; Jeaneal Moots, Vice-President; Marilyn Mayberry, Secretary-Treasurer; Mary Gifford, Reporter; for the second semester Jeaneal Moots, President; Paula Kirk and Billy Webb, Vice-Presidents; Marilyn Mayberry, Secretary-Treasurer; and Mary Gifford, Reporter. The club sponsored a Hobby Show for the night of Open House, November 12. Many hobbies were displayed, but the winners were Lawrence Neill and Ralph Weida, who had excellent coin collections.

During the year several parties were held, a Valentine Dinner at the Don-Paul cafeteria and on March 19, a reception was held for the Emerson Junior High School library staff.

Delta Theta Math Club Holds Various Educational Discussions

Delta Theta was very successful this year, composed of students taking trigonometry and solid geometry. Officers for the year were Earl Jane Whisler, President; Charles Phillips, Vice-President; John Hume, Secretary-Treasurer; During the meetings, held every two weeks, such subjects as switch board devices at the telephone office and seismograph drilling were discussed. The club was sponsored by Miss Florel Helema, math teacher.

Games, Trips and Play Day Highlight G.A.A.'s Year

The girls were coming up in the sports words of EHS. The Girls' Athletic Association known as the G.A.A. promoted many sports activities this year. Serving as officers of the organization were Joy Cox, President; Cleta Hardesty, Vice-President; Reta Hardesty, Secretary-Treasurer; Mary Coonrod, Points Manager; Doris Lebow, Reporter and Publication Manager; and the sponsor, Miss Lois Haskin. During the year the girls worked for points through participating and officiating. Members earning 150 points received jackets, 500 points an emblem, 1000 points a G.A.A. pin, and 1500 points a letter. Among the trips made were a basketball tournament March 1 at Ada, Oklahoma and an all sports tournament at Oklahoma A and M April 25, in which several members participated.

Also during the year they played exhibition games and sponsored a grade school play day. Not to forget the after school tournaments, one of the year's highlights, for which the G.A.A. furnished the medals.

"Under Western Skies" Title of Water Show

Another school club just begun last year, the Aquaettes Swimming Club, has been most outstanding this year. Under the direction of Miss Pat Armould the officers were Beth Pellow, President; Sharon Bruer, Program Chairman; Jane Neilson, Treasurer; Baynard Eitelman, Secretary; and Carole Gungoll, Reporter.

Early in the year the Aquaettes ordered blue patches with the name "Aquaettes" in white on them. The whole club bought black Jantzen bathing suits alike. The big event of the year was the second annual water show, "Under Western Skies." The theme was cowboys and Indians, and the EHS baseball team selected the Queen, Beth Pellow, from the twelve lovely candidates.

New Lettermen's Club Welcomed to Enid High

A new organization much welcomed to EHS this year was the "E" Club, composed of 31 lettermen. A constitution was framed and sponsors were Joe Gibson, Joe Leach, John Provost, Paul Geymann, and Jim Stroup. The 1951-52 officers elected were: Gene Andruss, President; Bob Brown, Vice-President; Norman Lamb, Secretary; John Bell, Sergeant-at-arms.

One of the outstanding activities sponsored by the "E" club was a program at the Emerson Auditorium on February 29. Featured on the program were Eddie Crowder, Merril Green and Sam Allen, OU football stars.

N.F.L. Increases Membership From Eleven to Thirty-four

Increasing its membership from eleven to thirty-four students the Enid High National Forensic League is justly proud of the record its students made in the year of 1951-52.

The N.F.L., largest in the state, was under the sponsorship of Hudson Wilcox, speech instructor. The officers for the year were: Robert Muir, President; John Dykes, Jr., Vice-President; Garlan Braithwaite, Secretary; Lawrence Neill, Treasurer; and Bradley McDonald, Reporter.

Besides attending many tournaments and contests throughout the year, this club had its time for fun. On Saturday, December 15, the gang all piled into cars and headed for Norma Hoover's home, north of the city, to have an old fashioned weiner roast. A box supper and a square dance were next on the party list. They were held January 26 at the Education Building.

A high point of the year came to pass on February 18 at the Little Theater. At that time the new members of the chapter were initiated.

The end of the perfect year came when the Spring banquet was held at the Don-Paul Cafeteria. This club had finished 1951-52 with "a job well done."

Palette Art Club Acquires National Art Society Members

The Palette Club under the sponsorship of Miss Katherine Bales was most active this year. Officers for the year were Twyla Miller, President; Beth Loudenslager, Vice-President; Shirley Franks, Secretary; Ronald Kegin, Treasurer; and Pat Thurman, Reporter. The club accomplished many things during the year. One of the memories is the Christmas party held December 13, at the home of Meme Cromwell, 801 West Cherokee. Three outstanding members, Twyla Miller, Joy McKnight and Rosemary Harms, were admitted into the National Art Society.

Eleven Enid High Students Join Activity Office Personnel

And then there's the never-to-be-forgotten activity office crew which the jolly V. O. Marshall directed. In the office this year were Barbara Frymire Whitsitt, Marian Hursh, Marcy Lee Rhodes, Margy Gifford, Jarilyn Russell, Carole Lee Feuquay, Richard Batchelder, Theron Miller, Charles Purnell, Ralph Weida, and Richard Havenstrite. This personnel took care of the in-coming and out-going money of Enid High.

Student Council Passes Bill Freeing Seniors From Exams

The Student Council was active as always this year. Under the leadership of Miss Ruth Moore the council accomplished much. Officers for this year were, Franklin Cooper, President; Bradley McDonald, Vice-President; Eloise Asfahl, Secretary; Beth Pellow, Treasurer; and Margy Kirkhart, Reporter.

With the hard work of the directory committee, the eagerly-awaited-for student directory was made available to all students about the middle of December.

Six outstanding council members, two from each class, were sent to the State Student Council Convention at Stillwater. Those attending were Bradley McDonald and Eloise Asfahl from the Senior class, Maynard Ewton and Tommie Lou Wright from the Junior class, and Dick McKnight and Judy Cromwell from the Sophomore class. All the Seniors were, of course, thrilled to hear about a bill, passed by the Student Council, that gave all Seniors, whose grades were satisfactory to teachers and whose citizenship was satisfactory to the office, exemption from the final examinations. The opinion shared by all was that the 1951-52 Student Council was outstanding.

New Club Pins Received By E.H.S. Vergilian Club

This year the Vergilian Club had an outstanding year under the sponsorship of Miss Addie Fromholz. Officers for the first semester were Charles DeLisle, President; David Selby, Vice-President; Sandra Byers, Secretary; Leo Dance, Treasurer, and Nell Rogers, Reporter. For the second semester Nell Rogers was President; Charles DeLisle, Vice-President; Leo Dance, Secretary; and Sandra Byers, Treasurer and Reporter.

Meetings were held every two weeks during second hour. The discussions held were on Roman and Greek myths and gods. The pins this year were gold plated with black enamel. The words Vergilian and EHS were lettered in gold. A formal opening was adopted beginning with the flag salute in Latin, "The Lord's Prayer," and closing of the opening with the singing of "America the Beautiful."

Bravettes Pep Club Attends Enid-Classen Basketball Game

The Bravette Pep Club with the leadership of four sponsors, Miss Lois Haskin, Miss Pat Armould, Miss Laura Milam, and Miss Ann Kuhnemund, made the 1951-52 term into a fun-filled year. The officers included. Beth Pellow, President; Beth Loudenslager, Vice-President; Margy Kirkhart, Secretary; Rita Turner, Treasurer; and Carole Gungoll, Reporter. The club consisted of about 150 members. Among the activities sponsored by the Bravettes were sock-hops after football and basketball games and assisting in the basketball and football queen ceremonies.

The Bravettes took only one out of town trip during the year, journeying to the Classen basketball game on February 1, 1952. The football trip was cancelled due to bad weather. The pep club was fortunate to have some enthusiastic cheerleaders this year, too. They were Shirley Franks, D'Ella Bratcher, Margy Kirkhart, Mary Lou McCreary, Earl Jane Whisler, Loy Dale, Charles Lavicky, Sandra Brown, and Baynard Eitelman.

La Junta Spanish Club Features Spanish Christmas Season

A very eventful year began for the La Junta Spanish Club in September with the election of the 1951-52 officers. Those chosen were. Eloise Asfahl, President; Marilyn Fuqua, Vice-President; Marilyn Cannon, Secretary-Treasurer; and Tom Silver, Reporter. Meetings were held once a month during fourth hour, under the direction of Miss Mildred Montgomery.

Various activities were carried on throughout the year such as Christmas carols, sung in Spanish, over the Enid High news broadcast. Also during the Christmas season they made Christmas cards with Spanish verses on them.

On the evening of December 20, 1951, a Christmas party in the form of a chili supper was held at the home of Eloise Asfahl. Typical of the interesteing programs of the

"Here's to Enid High School"

With the blending of many musical instruments and the steady beat of the bass drum, the Enid High School Band began its busy year with this familiar fight song, "Here's to Enid High School." An Enid High event would never be complete without the loyal support of its band under the direction of G. R. Bonham.

Like a song, which has to have a melody, the band also had to have its officers. Those elected were Leonard Atkinson, President; Norman Duckworth, Vice-President; Bill Shore, Secretary; Chuck Bond, Treasurer; and Robert Muir, Property Manager. To lead the Band Gene Girkham was selected as Drum Major.

Next came the lyrics which consisted of the many activities of the Band. The first being the performance at the Garfield County Fair, September 11. Beginning each football game with fireworks, the Enid High School Band began the first football game with the same enthusiasm. The Perry game September 14, was the first game at which the Perry and Enid Bands did their stuff by forming a "V" while Chief Morris and his tribe did a traditional dance pertaining to the Cherokee Strip Celebration. The Cherokee Strip parade followed the next day.

At the Putnam City game, September 21, the long awaited crowning of the Band Queen was the highlight of the half-time ceremonies. The '51-'52 Band Queen was a bright, brown eyed, brown haired Senior, Kae Major. Leonard Atkinson did the honors of crowning her. Her attendants were Ruth Ann Dyer and Eloise Asfahl.

On October 19, at the Capitol Hill Redskin game the 131 piece Marching Band put on a half-time demonstration of the versatility of their new uniforms. This was the first display of the new suits, and the Band had reason to be proud of these fine suits. All in all the suits can be worn five different ways. The uniforms consist of blue jackets trimmed in gold and with a gray belt and white cap with big yellow "West Point" plumes and blue-gray trousers with a gold stripe up the seam.

On the front of the jacket is a white shield with Enid on it, and this is where the versatility comes in quicker than you can say "snap," the shield comes off and the front of the coat is solid royal blue.

Solid gray with gold trim and gold front panel is the drum major's outfit with a tall

G. RAY BONHAM

Popular Band Director Retires

This year through retirement Enid High loses its outstanding band director, G. Ray Bonham, who has to his credit over 20 years of service at Enid High.

Mr. Bonham began his musical career in John Phillip Sousa's band during World War I. At the Great Lakes Naval Training station he played first chair cornet in the Third Regiment band. Later he was drum major of the Battalion band of 400 pieces, the largest band in the United States. His final ranking was acting band director, and his rating was chief petty officer.

After the war he was captain on the 189th Field Artillery in Enid where he was director. Mr. Bonham has played in the O.U. band also. In 1917 Mr. Bonham was principal at Jefferson school for a year and a half, and previous to the war had been principal at Garfield to which position he returned until 1923.

When the Junior Highs were formed, Mr. Bonham organized both Junior High Bands in the grade schools. Mr. Bonham was the first and only director of Enid High's bands and for a time the orchestras.

The honors he has received for his top bands are many and varied. His bands have taken two state championships, countless sweepstakes awards in Tri-State, not to mention countless district and regional contests.

When Enid High School was being reconstructed after the fire, Mr. Bonham asked for the space where the old gym used to be for his new band room, drawing the plans for it himself. Many band directors and music judges were consulted, and they all gave Mr. Bonham pointers on the planning of the perfect band room we now have, and one that has received national recognition. The final original plans are now at the University of Oklahoma.

Mr. Bonham stated that he believed he was the only band director that has attended and entered organizations in every Tri-State band festival since its beginning twenty years ago in 1932.

When asked about his future plans Mr. Bonham said he is entering photography as his full-time job. He was interested in photography as a hobby fifteen years ago and has developed it into his interesting new occupation.

the front of any Band wear blue "West Point" helmets, royal blue jackets, and short accordian pleated skirts. These high stepping girls are Kay Dickey, Head Twirler, and Gerry Bowden, Leona Danahy, Evelyn May, Maudine Albert, Donna Hughes, Belva Clark, and Marie Dudley.

For the color guard there are blue jackets and gray skirts with gold inserts. These girls were also librarians and shouldered much of the responsibility for the Band. They were Meme Cromwell, Head Librarian, Joanna Champlin, Merilyn Humphries, Mary Beth Garnett, Phyllis Childress, and Jackie Lindsay.

The Band Queen wore the traditional white skirt and sweater with the blue cape. Her hat of white fur completed her outfit.

Band master G. R. Bonham wasn't forgotten either with a new royal blue outfit with gold stripes. The total cost of the uniforms was approximately $7,000.

The final game of the football season with Northeast was highlighted by the crowning of the football queen in which the Band assisted by forming a juke box playing "Because of You" and "Mr. Touchdown E.H.S."

One of the things that every bandsman looks forward to is the out-of-town trips. The first of these was the trip to Norman for the Oklahoma University Band Day, November 17, which was a cold, blustery, wintry day. In the event, there were 95 bands participating. The bands paraded around the campus and were judged accordingly. At the Iowa-O.U. game, which all the bands attended, the Enid Band was presented a beautiful first place, Class A, trophy.

Numerous band clinics were attended by members of the band, the first being in Stillwater. Those selected to attend were Truman Netherton, Mary Cammack, Kay Dickey, and Dwight Corley. The Phillips band clinic was attended by a large representative from the band. They were: Truman Netherton, Bill Shore, Mary Cammack, Marilynn Rempel, Richard Merritt, Shirley Holt, Dwight Corley, Gene Kirk-

In keeping with the Yuletide season the band presented its annual Christmas assembly, December 21. The assembly would not have been complete without Santa Claus, impersonated by Hudson Wilcox, and his reindeer, symbolized by the twirlers, Donna Hughes as Rudolph, Kay Dickey, Gerry Bowden, Leona Danahy, Belva Clark, Maudine Albert and Evelyn May. To complete the Christmas spirit the band marched in the traditional Christmas Parade, sponsored by the Retail Merchants.

A few side attractions of the band included the Teen Town band which entertained various groups and played for a few assemblies. It is composed of Richard Hampton, Bob Jenkins, and Truman Netherton—trumpets; Don Bloom, James Dorman, Frank Dorman—saxes; Chuck Bond,—trombone; and Leonard Atkinson—drums. Director of the band is Roy Daniel. To help with the all-school play, a swing band was organized. The members were Chuck Bond, trombone; Marilynn Rempel, saxophone; Viola Smith, piano; Leonard Atkinson, drums; Barbara Holden, tenor sax; Sherron Matthews and Viola Mitchell, piano; and Nancy Conner, oboe.

ORCHESTRA

"SYMPHONY, SONG, AND SWING"

Again this year the band presented its annual Symphony, Song, and Swing, this being the thirteenth. The traditional event took place at the convention hall on February 26 with Meme Cromwell doing the narrating.

To start the program off a reading was given by La Vena Park called "I Am Music." Following, the orchestra under the direction of H. D. Montgomery, played two selections.

The eighty-eight piece concert band under the baton of Mr. Bonham played the following selections. "National Capitol March," "Salute to Correlli," "William Tell Overture" (Allegro Vivace), "Lilt of the Latin," "Gremlin Ball," "Lassus Trombone," "Barnum and Bailey," "The Whistler and His Dog." Special soloists were Truman Netherton, Chuck Bond, Bill Shore, and Richard Merritt.

Special attractions for the evening were presented by Narda Wilcox doing an acrobatic dance, Jack Ritter and Neil Myer, playing on guitars, twirlers doing twirls on lighted batons. Another outstanding feature was presented by both the boys and girls of the physical education department, doing tumbling and stunts on the trampoline.

To end the evening of both popular and classical music, "Stars and Stripes Forever" was played while the color guard brought the colors forth.

Sharing the instrumental music spotlight with the band is the Enid High School orchestra directed by Mr. John Montgomery.

The high school group is made up of ten members. In the complete orchestra there are forty, this including junior high students. The instruments represented are six cellos, four violas, four basses, two pianists, and twenty-two violins.

The special appearances include playing at the "Symphony, Song, and Swing," in which the orchestra presented "Walter Music" and "Jazz Pizzicato." It also played at the All City Concert, April 7, and entered the Tri-State festival.

Congratulations, Seniors!

of the performances that later gained him a berth on the All-State team.

After a scoreless first period the Warriors got rolling. Radcliff grabbed two of Aubrey Bristow's tosses to pull the Plainsmen ahead 13-0. Norman Lamb made it decisive a few minutes later on a 19-yard end around to make the halftime score read 19 to 0, Enid.

Again in the fourth period it was Radcliff on an end around for 31 yards and the clinching marker. Radcliff in addition to his scoring punches punted two beautiful kicks that went out of bounds inside the Northeast 10-yard line and threw a pass into the end zone that the receiver juggled to make incomplete.

Classen countered in the final quarter, but it was not nearly enough as the Plainsmen triumphed to get back in the win column. It was a game marred by fumbles by Northeast, 7 in all. Six were recovered by Enid.

The tilt was highlighted by the returning lettermen and the crowning of Sharon Bruer, the 1951-52 Football Queen, by John Dykes.

The disastrous season finale came the following Friday night as Enid traveled to Lawton to meet the highly touted Wolverines from the short grass country. Lawton wasted no time in showing their strength as Quarterback Gene Dean masterminded the Wolverines to a 27-to-6 victory.

It was Dean in the first quarter pitching to Don Haskins for 18 yards and a touchdown. Only 20 seconds later, following an Enid fumble the Wolverines again knocked on the door as Dean fired a bullet pass to End Don Haskins for 26 yards and another marker and a 13-to-0 halftime lead.

Enid made its bid in the opening minutes of the third quarter. Aubrey Bristow fired an aerial to End Rip Radcliff 32 yards away. Rip smothered it and stepped over the double stripe unmolested for the only Enid tally of the game.

Lawton was to be unimpressed however as Gene Dean came roaring back to fire another pass, this time for 40 yards and another Lawton tally. The Wolverines added the clincher later in the same quarter on another pass from Dean. The final: Lawton 27, Enid 6.

Twenty-five Plainsmen lettered this year and 13 received jackets. Six Seniors, 11 Juniors, four Sophomores and four managers either received letters or letter jackets. Those Seniors lettering were Glenn Bowers, Norman Duckworth, John Dykes, Ted Elam, Charles Phillips, and Rip Radcliff. The largest number of Juniors in many years lettered. They were Aubrey Bristow, Bob Brown, Worth Clark, Jerry Haskins, Rocky Hughes, Norman Lamb, Richard Massey, Bill McDaniel, Glenn Painter, Bob Phillips, and DeRoose Raymond.

Four Sophomores made the grade; Rooky Dykes, Don Froese, Richard Harman, and Daymond Myers.

Three Seniors and one Junior received managers' letter jackets. Harold Pratt, Duane Moulton, David Hermanski, and Dennis Eukena, the unseen and unsung members of anynbody's ball team came early and stayed late to keep the Plainsmen in fighting shape and equipment.

ENID BOARD

OF

Speech

—BY—

Garlan Braithwaite and John Dykes

"Start looking now for a place to put your 'Leading Chapter Award,'" Bruno E. Jacobs, secretary of the National Forensic League, wrote Hudson Wilcox, E.H.S. speech director, as he stated that for the second time Enid has earned the Outstanding Chapter award for the State of Oklahoma.

In earning this award the 125 students of the department appeared in more than three-thousand performances including debates, contests, tournaments, and programs before civic, church, fraternal, and scout groups. Highlights of the year included three assemblies, and three plays produced by the department. Special assembly material was presented at the Armistice and Christmas seasons and an assembly of outstanding contest materials was presented in the spring. The All-School, Junior Class and Senior Class Plays were produced through the department with special scenery and lighting effects for each of them.

Radio programs of the department were varied this year as the students presented weekly shows over KCRC and KGWA and also presented five-minute news shows over the public address each noon. Two special radio assemblies were also presented—one for American Brotherhood Week, and one of a humorous nature. An outstanding feature of the KCRC show each week during the second semester was the "Tops in Talent" series presenting an outstanding student musician. This was an impressive record for the first year's activity of the newly organized radio class.

Individual winners in contests during the year included Sara Lou Wells who placed second in the district contest of the American Legion oratory contest; Jack Harris, second in the district VFW radio speech contest; and John Dykes, Brad McDonald and Garlan Braithwaite, local winners in the "I Speak for Democracy" radio speech contest sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Radio Manufacturers. Sara Lou's topic was "Our Constitution: Temple of Liberty," and Jack's VFW speech was "What America Means to Me."

Early in the year the department was represented at the Oklahoma University Speech Activities Conference as eighteen students attended; Brad McDonald was the school's entrant in the state's initial Forensic Progression, taking third place in this two-day meet which included three rounds of debate, extemporaneous speech, two rounds of discussion, and two general assemblies. Garlan Braithwaite, Leo Dance, John Dykes, and Marilynn Rempel were the school's representatives at the first session of the state's NFL Student Congress held at Seminole in November. Garlan and John were then senators at the second session held on the O.U. campus in May.

Qualifying tournaments attended by students during the year were those held on the campuses of Oklahoma Baptist University, Northwestern State College, Central State College, and the intact conference held at Ponca City High School. Second place sweepstakes honors were earned by the department at both the Northwestern meet and at the Ponca City intact conference.

Students entering debate in these tournaments were Brad McDonald, Lawrence Neill, Garlan Braithwaite, John Dykes, Robert Muir, Laurence Swink, Carlan Crawford, Melvin Webber, Alan McMahan, Bill Pitts, Leo Dance, Marilynn Rempel and James Williamson. Garlan, John and Brad were the team members who entered the State tournament. Seniors McDonald, Braithwaite, Dykes, Neill, Muir, Swink, and Crawford received debate letters for the season.

Other students who qualified for the state meet were Elaine Neill in public address, girls' radio speech, and girls' extemporaneous speech; LaVena Park in humorous and dramatic literature; Jack Harris in boys' radio speech; Bradley McDonald in boys' extemporaneous speech; Jo Anne Hart in dramatic literature; Patty Lou Mason in poetry interpretation; Garlan Braithwaite in public address; and Darrell McGugin in original oratory. The radio play, "Melusina," received a Superior rating at the Alva district tournament and also qualified for the state meet. Members of the cast were Jack Harris, LaVena Park, and Darrell McGugin; Edith Regier, announcer; and technicians were Larry Albright and Carlan Crawford. Jack Harris took third in Boys Radio at the state meet.

Attending the N.F.L. district tournament at Seminole in April were debaters Bradley McDonald, Robert Muir, John Dykes, and Garlan Braithwaite; orators Sara Lou Wells and Laurence Swink; and extemporaneous speakers Elaine Neill, Walter McDonald, and Laurence Swink.

During the year exchange debates were held with Yukon, Hunter, and Hennessey High Schools in preparation for tournaments. Technical assistance was given during the year in connection with Aquaette's Water Show, the Junior-Senior Reception, the Band Concert, and the Chorus Concert.

Elaine Neill, Elizabeth Marshall, Janie Franks, Georgia Nichols, Nancy Conner, and Jo Anne Hart—six Sophomore girls extremely interested in speech—and holding high hopes for future speech work, are all

The Legionettes

—BY—

Marilyn Mayberry

The hopes and dreams of about 56 girls have a chance of coming true. The girls are the Enid Legionettes and the cause of their hopes and dreams is the knowledge that this is the year that they may be sent to the National American Legion Convention in New York City. This prospect is enough to make them work harder than ever with many of them actually looking forward to this summer when the long evening drills will come.

Though the National Convention is the most-looked-forward-to trip, they must always be ready for a parade or anything else that an American Legion post may ask them to do.

A trip to Covington for a parade and a free lunch, cooked by the Covington Auxiliary; to Cherokee for another parade, and more wonderful food; and the 89'er parade at Guthrie found them again taking first place honors over the Oklahoma City Kilties and the Stillwater drum corps. Tulsa was host to the State American Legion convention this year, and here the Legionettes had their most-enjoyed trip; staying three days in the Central High School gymnasium, marching in the big parade on Saturday morning, starting a parade of their own every evening, that most of the town came to see, and playing for the convention in the Tulsa Coliseum. Also the officers at that time put on an entertaining evening of skits for the rest of the corps. The officers then were: Lou Ann Schmidt, President; Marilyn Fourier, Vice-President, Reporter and Secretary; Jo Magill, Treasurer; Marilyn Mayberry, Bugle Captain; Sandra Ritchie, Bugle Lieutenant; Verna Jo Walker, Drum Captain; and Tommie Lou Wright, Drum Lieutenant. At the Sunday morning meeting of the convention they again won the vote and were reinstated as the official drum and bugle corps for the state of Oklahoma.

On December 10, 1951, the American Legion gave them a wonderful Christmas party with gifts for everyone and entertainment provided by a group from Oklahoma A and M college in Stillwater. Also on this evening the graduating Seniors were presented with their pins. Those who wear the Senior pins are: Lou Ann Schmidt, Jo Magill, Lois Ann Leighty, Marilyn Mayberry, Carol Hitchcock, and Marilyn Fourier. At the first meeting in January the corps elected offices for the next part of 1952. They are: Phyllis Langkiet, President; Marilyn Mayberry, Vice-President, Secretary and Reporter; Sharon Ruch, Treasurer; Marilyn Jones, Bugle Captain; Barbara Autry, Bugle Lieutenant; Norella Doane, Drum Captain, and Barbara Barnes, Drum Lieutenant.

In January the drum corps entertained the Legionette alumni at the annual alumni tea. The corps played for their guests, and the following girls were also in special numbers: Connie Klingman, Pat Fairchild, Marilyn Mayberry, Carole Sears, Lois Ann Leighty, Wilma Weber, Darrell McGugin, Marietta Gary, Jeanette Swartout, and Luella Williamson.

In April the corps gave their spring concert at the convention hall, playing the new music they had learned. Some of these songs, which Mr. Milburn Carey arranged so well for them were: Have You Ever Seen a Dream Walking; C'mon to My House; Oh, Dear, What Can the Matter Be; and Lady Be Good.

Tri-State, May 8-9-10, 1952, found the Legionettes taking part in the marching contest and the parade where they again made high grades.

The people who make it possible for the girls to have these trips, as well as all the fun that comes before them, are the director of the Legionettes, Milburn E. Carey, director of Fine Arts at Phillips University; the business manager, Nelson Newman; the corps' Mom and Pop, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Books, and American Legion Argonne Post Number 4.

State Champs

—BY—

Rip Radcliff

From the start it looked like it was going to be a tough but a great year for the Warriors of West Wabash. They had to fight hard all through the season, going into overtimes in many games.

The desire to win and never give up was the reason why the Plainsmen were the "State Champs."

In the first game of the season the Warriors of West Wabash played Guymon at the convention hall. They showed a very promising victory by soundly defeating Guymon 36-22. The Plainsmen had the upper hand throughout the game.

The second game wasn't so easy though, the Plainsmen had to go into an overtime to win by Richard Havenstrite's free throw, making the score 34-33.

High honors for the game for Enid were split by Bert Weber and Arnold Krause, each hitting nine points. This marked the tough beginning of the games to come.

Enid suffered the first defeat of the season to Blackwell 26-24 in what proved to be a cold night in the scoring department for both teams.

Blackwell stalled the ball for the last minute and fifteen seconds which was the fatal phase of the game for the Plainsmen. Enid led in the game only three times, two of which were in the first quarter. Richard Wackerman was the only hot spot of the game hitting 12 points, half of the scoring made by the Plainsmen.

The fourth game of the season was a different story; in two overtimes the Plainsmen eked out a 43-41 victory over El Reno with Richard Wackerman doing the damage by sinking two free-throws in the sudden death overtime.

Although Wackerman was high for the night with 12 points, Bert Weber was the spark plug of the team with his outstanding rebounding play. At the end of the fourth quarter the score was 40-40, and at the end of the first overtime it was 41-41.

The second contest played against El Reno, the same week, the Plainsmen had a better time of it. Enid easily defeated El Reno 51-36. This gave Coach Paul Geymann a chance to see how some of the inexperienced boys looked in a game as he cleared the bench in the latter part of the game. Richard Wackerman was high for the game with 16 points, and Gene Andruss was hot on his heels with 14 points.

In another non-conference tilt the Plainsmen defeated Alva 48-38, again Geymann cleared the bench to give the men some experience. Richard Wackerman came up with 12 points again making him the top scorer. This marked the Plainsmen's fifth win against one loss.

The Plainsmen fought off a last quarter

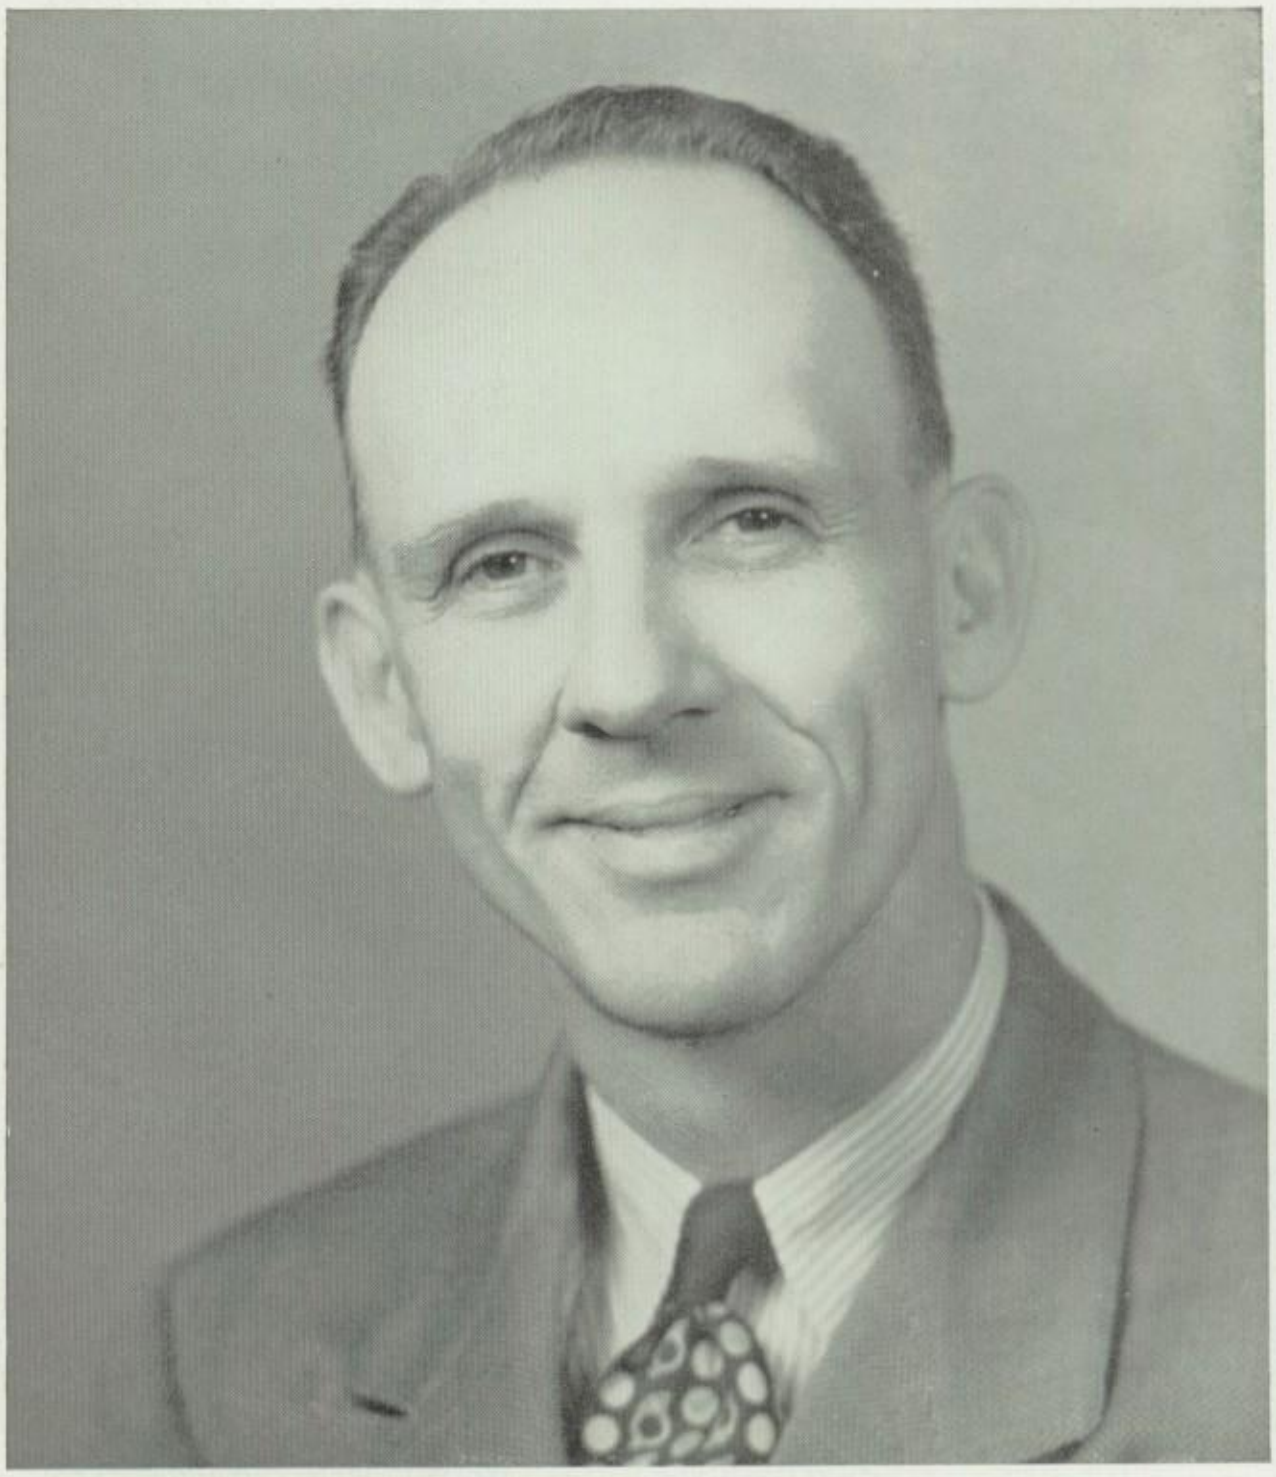
In Memoriam



Beryl Knox

TO BERYL

God peopled the earth with good and bad,
But He gave to few the smile Beryl had.
His life was filled with carefree joy,
A man in stature; in spirit, a boy.
He loved his family most of all,
And next came his love for basketball.
The rafters would ring with his loud cry, "Foul!"
He'd call 'em as he saw 'em despite the howl.
And this was Beryl, full of fun and jest,
Who died while doing what he loved best.

Chorus

—BY—
Nancy Usher

Dear Jane,

Here I am again. It really doesn't seem possible that another year of school has passed, but I guess it has.

This year we have been exceptionally busy in Chorus. We started the year off with a bang by giving an assembly November 15, quite a bit sooner than usual, but we were going to Stillwater, November 20, to perform as guest artists at the annual Thanksgiving Festival sponsored by Oklahoma A and M College and needed the practice.

At Stillwater we had a very nice time. The guest conductor was Harry Robert Wilson, director of music at Columbia University in New York City. Mr. Wilson directed the 3,000 students in several selections such as "The Holiday Song," "Cool Water," a humorous little ditty called "Sourwood Mountain," and a comedy number "Skip To My Lou."

We did two numbers "Gloria In Excelsis Deo" and "Old Moses Put Pharaoah In His Place" with Don Yule as soloist.

"The Green Pastures" was our next appearance. The Chorus and Speech Departments went together for the first time in many years to present this play. The Mixed Chorus played the part of the Angelic Choir.

As the Christmas time rolled around, once again the Mixed Chorus was caught in its jolly atmosphere on December 12, by singing at the Presbyterian Church Circle. The next day we performed at the annual assembly.

Sunday, December 16, brought together 1,600 grade school and Junior High children along with the Girls' Chorus, Boys' Glee Club and the Mixed Chorus to present the Christmas Vesper Service. The Girls' Chorus started the high school part of the program with a song about the shepherds and how they left their sheep to go to worship the Child's coming, called "Now Leave Your Flocks" by Davis. Their next number was a German song by Shaw "The Christmas Nightengale." The Mixed Chorus did three numbers on the program, the first being "Gloria In Excelsis Deo" by Mozart. The "Song of Christmas" was next. This is a story of the Birth of Christ set to music. The song is written in narrative fashion with Hudson Wilcox acting as narrator. The words are all taken from the angel appearing to Mary until the praising of the people after His birth. The last number climaxed this program honoring the Birth of Christ, "The Hallelujah Chorus."

As time went on, we worked so diligently on numbers new and old, several groups were organized, the first being that to head the Mixed Chorus. David King got the nod for President with Gerald Unruh as Vice-President and Jeaneal Moots as Secretary-Treasurer. The books, of course, needed a librarian, so Marilyn Cannon was chosen for that position.

A Girls' Quartet was organized with Carolyn Reynolds, Edith Vogt, Roberta Pyle, and Benalea Baker.

A Girls' Trio was also arranged with Carolyn Reynolds, Doris and Dorothy Voth. This group, however, had to be abandoned due to the Voths moving to California.

Loy Dale, Walter Isaacs, Earl Critchlow, and Don Yule made up the Boys' Quartet. The two quartets together are known as the Mixed Quartet.

For the first time in the history of Enid High School Mixed Chorus the boys outnumbered the girls. The enrollment in Boys'

A happy bunch of kids entered Enid High School March 8, 1948. They were to launch upon their careers as high school students in the remodeled high school for the first time since the devastating fire swept through its halls on the night of September 2, 1943. Four years have gone speeding by, and Enid High has weathered them very well. Many of the faces have changed through the years, but the basic fundamentals are the same. The next few paragraphs tell about the various departments that go into making Enid High School the great institution that it is.

One of the largest departments in our school is the English Department. Miss Charlotte Kretsch heads it and also teaches Senior English which consists of a unit on grammar and American Literature. The Juniors in Enid High take English under Miss Ruth Moyer, Mrs. Carol Spencer, and Miss Laura Milam. The Juniors also have a unit on grammar and also take English Writers. Miss Ann Kuhnemund and Mrs. Pat Yowell are teachers in Sophomore English which consists of a selection of works by well known authors, such as "Julius Caesar" by Shakespears, "Silas Marner" by George Eliot, and "The Idylls of the King" by Tennyson plus their grammar and composition units. Mr. Hudson Wilcox also instructs the Sophomores in an introductory speech course which consists of the reading of the great works and a speech course in place of the usual grammar.

Also in the English Department but truly a department within a department is the journalism course taught by Miss Ruth Scott. The students in the first year learn the basic fundamentals that go into making a good paper. The second year students put these fundamentals to work. The first semester there were three staffs who alternately put out the Quill Weekly. The second semester the first year staffs took on the paper while the second year students started to work on this year's annual. Book and Magazine Reports, Library Units and Interviews complete the work of the department.

Also very active is the Guidance department under Mr. Derwood Johnson. Mr. Johnson gives aptitude tests, has conferences with the students, and points out in what field they hold the most ability. Mr. Johnson also teaches a new but very popular course psychology.

A busy department in Enid High is the Speech-Drama Department under Mr. Hudson Wilcox. Radio, debate, drama, and speech are all a part of this well organized department. This department sends out students to various contests in the speech and drama field. The object of this course is to develop well-rounded speakers; the civic and institutional leaders of the not-too-distant future.

English is not the only language taught or spoken in our school, for Latin, French and Spanish are also on the schedule. Miss Addie Fromholz heads the Language department and teaches Latin, which consists of first year Latin, Caesar, and Virgil, and French. Miss Mildred Montgomery teaches Spanish which has first and second year courses. Enter into this popular department and you'll be greeted with a Saludos, amigos! or the conjugation of amo or parle'.

Would you like some music? Well, inquire at the band or vocal music rooms. Mr. G. R. Bonham, band, Mr. John Montgomery, orchestra, and Miss Maurine Morrow, vocal music are the instructors.

If it's history or Bible classes you are after, look in the Social Studies department headed by Mr. Cecil Gott who also teaches American history to Seniors. Mr. John Provost is also busily engaged in teaching history to the Seniors. World history can be taken under Miss Helen Stewart, Mr. George Pratt or Mr. Joe Leach. Mr. Pratt also has classes in the study of the Bible. After a year or two in this department, the students find they are well qualified to be good citizens.

Many students are to be found in the D.O. and D.E. department and find it very helpful in the fact that it gives advanced experience. Mr. Tom Kennedy heads Diversified Occupations while Mr. Perry McCoy instructs Distributive Education. Besides learning the basic fundamentals that go into making up our present day business world, the students have jobs and actively put these to good use. If you ever need a good employee, look in this department.

One of the most popular departments is the Physical Education Department. Two large divisions make up this section of our school, one for the boys and one for the girls. To prove how popular it is, 330 boys are enrolled and 300 girls. Mr. Joe Gibson heads the boys while Miss Pat Armould and Miss Lois Haskin instruct the girls. Excellent facilities and equipment lend to the teaching of various sports and games. The girls are taught swimming by Miss Armould while the boys are coached by Mr. Joe Leach and Mr. Jim Stroup. Mr. John Provost and Mr. Paul Geymann also instruct in boys' physical education. Good sportsmanship is stressed, not only during the game but at all times.

"The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," is being learned by the young industrious cooks in Mrs. Lois Vance's cooking classes. The girls also find a neat appearance is necessary in Miss Ellen Correll's clothing and homecraft classes. All of

Seniors

—BY—

D'Ella Bratcher and Margy Kirkhart

"Madam Zuzu, knows all, sees all, and tells all." The brightly colored sign shown out from the dingy doorway of an old mysterious shop and seemed to beckon to all passers-by to come inside. D'Ella and Margy, being two normally curious Seniors, timidly opened the massive door shuddering slightly as they heard the shrill jingling of the tiny antique bell that hung above the door to warn its mistress of intruders. As the girls stood in the dimly lighted doorway, scanning the room, they suddenly became aware that they were not alone. In the darkest corner at an old table covered with a ragged cloth and a bright, round, clear crystal ball, sat an old and withered woman. Her coarse, gray hair was almost covered by a faded blue turban, and her face had no expression on it what-so-ever except for two coal black eyes that seemed to shine out like a friendly light house on a troubled sea. She was garbed in an out-model, old-fashioned black dress that seemed to engulf her tiny figure. As she smiled, her eyes lit up and with a decided accent said, "May I help you, girls?"

"Well," stuttered Margy, "we wondered if maybe you could tell us about the future of our class of 1952."

"Yes," D'Ella broke in, "we know we may never see all the students again, and we sort of wondered what was going to happen to everyone."

"We shall see," answered the old fortune teller as she waved her hands slowly over the table. "The crystal ball is beginning to clear and, ah yes, I see that yours is an outstanding class. They have all the virtues of intelligence, humor, kindness, and ambition that will help them in their future years. What do I see here? Oh, it's the Los Angeles Rams' professional football team playing their biggest game of the year. There seems to be several old Plainsmen starring on the squad. They are Glen Bowers, Norman Duckworth, Ted Elam, Dean Kerss, Charles Purnell, Rip Radcliff, Jon Ruzek, Gary Caldwell, John Dykes, and Joe Fishinghawk. Their manager and coach is still David "Atlas" Hermanski. The scene is changed again. I see a new professional basketball team has been organized by the State Champs of 1952. Members of the team are Paul Russell, Gene Andruss, Vernon Haskins, Richard Havenstrite, Richard Wackerman, Bill Weldon, and Bert Weber. They still have their trustworthy manager, Gerald "Einstein" Unruh.

"Ah ha! What's this? It's Bob Galusha's new large and bustling department store, and who are the co-managers but Jack Paup and Bob Jenkins. The store, Oldmans, seems to have several familiar girls working in the office. These secretaries are Kae Major, Margy Gifford, Joyce Bailey, Mary Gifford, Margie Bugg, and Rita Turner. I see as head of the ladies-ready-to-wear department, Ellen Bennett, and Marilyn Phillips now directs the advertising department. Other employees are Bob Knoblock, head of the men's department and Junior Ramsey, floor-walker."

"How strange," said the old woman, "here I see Meme Cromwell, Joanna Champlin, and Dan Dillingham, cousins, who all started to school at the same time in the same room and graduated at the same time are now partners in the DMJ greeting card manufacturing company. Meme's the artist, Joanna's the poet, and Dan sells them. Doris Franke and Neil Mitchell, who are world renowned greeting card experts, endorse them fully."

"Now, I hear the gay music of a circus calliope played by Helen Mudgett, concert 'calliopist!. Here I see the great Ringling Brothers Circus with its feature act, the daring, death defying Richard Hampton, who performs dangerous feats on the trampeline at 500 feet in the air. At the moment Gene Kirkham is directing the circus band while Gilbert Ives does his tumbling act twirling three batons at once. Norma Jean Hoover is the cowgirl queen of the Wild West show and Wahneta Cooper trains the performing horses of the circus."

"As the crystal ball changes again, I see several little rosecovered cottages. These are the homes of all the girls who were married while still attending EHS. These girls, Veta Anthony Davis, Dorothy Coonfield Mastroeni, Gloria Jean Breed Bouziden, Barbara Frymire Whitsitt, Jean Smith Harris, Beverly Winters Schmidt, and Drue Meloy Saunier, are all doing a wonderful job as homemakers."

"What's that music I hear coming from one of the cottages? One of the girls is playing the number one record on the hit parade, "The Little Black Cloud That Laughed." It has been recorded by Don Bloom and his band, which happens to be the top band in the land. The members of the band are the same boys who used to be in the Teen Town band: Chuck Bond, Frank Dorman, Leonard Atkinson, James Dorman, and Bill Shore. The song is sung by the Jones Sisters, who are really Doris Voth, Carolyn Reynolds, and Dorothy Voth. The girls have made several movies with such stars as Benalea Baker and Berna Lou Byers. Speaking of stars, I see Shirley Franks, girl comedienne, is opening at the Cop A Cabana night club. Also on the program is Don Dorn, master of ceremonies, and Tom Bingham, drummer. There seems to be quite a crowd at the club. I see in the audience such familiar faces as Richard Batchelder and Josephine Myers. Leon Duggan and his partner, Jim Lagan, are now the co-owners of the Copa."

"The scene is now changed from the loud music of the club to the quiet dignity of the halls of Harvard University. Here I see several familiar loking professors. They are Robert Dillon, history professor; Robert Muir, chemistry professor; Billy Hatch, mathematics professor; Theron Miller, physics professor; and Harold Pratt, president of the University. Not far away I see Vassar College for women. Here we find Eloise Asfahl, president of the college, talking to several professors. As I look closer I see that they are Melva Dee, Ramona Galusha, and Sara Lou Wells."

"Next I see a large hospital filled with personnel from Enid High. Here is Jere Fisher, nose and throat doctor; Kendall Noah, surgeon; and Don Yule, psychiatrist. Some of the nurses are Kay Dickey, Edith Regier, Jeaneal Moots, Nancy Usher, and Betty Jo Ball. Ola Gregory is the dietitian and Virginia Baldwin, laboratory technician. I also see two patients are recovering from slight injuries. Jerry Brown is suffering from a broken hand acquired during a baseball game with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Gerry Bowden, champion twirler, is also recovering from a bump on the head received when one of her batons fell on it."

"Here is Merilyn Humphries' ultra-modern, million dollar 'Turkey in the Rough' restaurant. Delores Cooper and Edith Hirst are the singing roller-skaters for the floor show. Their gowns and costumes are always designed by Hollywood's 'Joyce' or as we once knew her Joyce Moore. Strange as it may seem, for one who has made a fortune off turkeys, Miss Humphries still has her allergy of turkeys and Thanksgiving, developed at an early age. Other '52 graduates employed by the restaurant are: Bruce Bittle, business manager; Frank Fuller, turkey buyer; Quinn Brisben, Don Woods, Charles Williams, Freddy Will, all entertainers; Bob Wegmiller, Billy Stephenson, Don Sloan, George Rayl, and "Chopper" Phillips are bouncers."

"The scene now changes to the building of the New York Times where we see David King, editor, working feverishly putting out the paper. On the staff are Nancy Wagner, society editor; Sharon Bruer, feature editor; Paul Nave, sports editor; Joe Walker, humor editor; Hal Temple and David Tennison, photographers; and Jon Keller, ace reporter and crime investigator."

"As the crystal ball changes again, we are now in Washington, D. C. at our nation's capitol. Here we find several senators arguing over several important issues of the day. These senators are Garlan Braithwaite, Carlan Crawford, Jack Harris, Bradley McDonald, Lawrence Neill, and the only woman senator, Harlene Pierce. As the senators continue their argument, they suddenly become quiet and rise slowly as the President of the United States, Franklin Cooper, walks in."

Next we seem to be on a large farm where Carole Gungoll, geologist, and Beth Pellow, girl farmer, are arguing over an oil well on Beth's farm."

"What's this I see. It's a modeling agency for beautiful women and handsome men. Some of the models are walking out, I wonder who they are. Why, it's Leona Danahy, Ruth Ann Dyer, Delores Morgan, Lois Ann Leighty, Beverly Sweatt, Claude Turner, Denny Rosser, and Monte DeBusk."

"Not all the class are living in the United States. I see Bob Moore and Edwin Recknagel, engineers, are trying to build a canal that will surpass the Panama Canal. Also Joe Reinhart, aeronautical engineer, is flying planes over Burma. Joy McKnight and Twyla Bee Miller are now teaching art to prominent Chinese students. Beth Loudenslager, Rosemary Harms, and Maxine Hoover, other well-known artists, are assisting them."

"Several of the EHS students have gone into business for themselves. Take for instance, the law practice of Smith, Smith, and Smith, in which Herman, Joe, and Roy are all partners with none other than Milda Smith as their secretary. Several of the girls have invested in a very prosperous "beauty salon" which guarantees to make every woman who comes through their doors more beautiful. These girls are Doris Avery, Barbara Chick, Claretta Clodfelter, Verna Mae Cox, Delores Ehrlich, Joan Lord, Donna McClure, and Jo Magill. Ralph Weida has become a prominent banker and employs several familiar students such as Shirley Bradley, accountant; Jean Bunch, secretary; and Larry Dupus and Ronal Eichman, guards."

"Ronald Bobbitt is now owner of the Bobbitt candy company, which employs Eugene Baker, Tom Watkins, Gerry Ray, and Margaret Pullan as expert candy tasters."

"Several girls are back teaching at their old school, Enid High. These girls are Orlene Rex, Myrna Shoffner, Mary Simerley, Mary Towell, Willa Fay Watkins, Kathryn Whitley, Maxine Winn, Ruth Brannon, Julia Carter, and Carol Hitchcock."

"What's this? I now see a large crowd gathered at Madison Square Garden for the biggest fight of the year. Bill Sturdevant and Jim Long are contending for the lightweight championship of the world. James Sturdevant, manager of contender Jim Long, has been trying to match the fight for over a year. Seated at ring-side are several famous commentators broadcasting this great fight.
They are Fern Davidson, Don Wuerflein, Lawrence Swink, and Leatrice Diller Gritz."

"The crystal ball is changing again. We seem to be in Europe now. We are at the military headquarters there. Commander in Chief of the Allied Forces, Bruce Baldwin is conferring with his top general, James Williamson. Outside we see the roughest, toughest top sergeant in the ranks, Bill Seacat, giving orders to his troops. In the squadron are J. R. Francis, Jack Gambill, Stanley Gregg, Garwin Haggard, and Harold Hays."

"The scene is changed again. I see Earl Jane Whisler, who heads the Love Lorn Bureau of New York. She has helped quite a few people embark on the sea of matrimony. Miss Whisler has several assistants: Barbara Blair, Mary Cammack, Carol Coen, Betty Jean Daley, and Joyce Donnell, who help her in her thriving business."

"What's this I see? An all-women police force headed by Captain Shirley Holt. In her squad are several plainclothes women, Barbara Patterson, Zelda Orr, Jo Ann Noah, and Pat Mullin. Also on the force are patrol women, Mary Ann Morris, Marilyn Mayberry, Roma Koehn, and Virginia Kepford."

"The scene is now a large museum in a thriving city. Here we find Don Nave is giving an art exhibition of all his work. They say his pictures are collectively worth over five million dollars. His most famous painting is "Study of a Spoiled Apple." Some of his ardent admiring critics are Barbara Holden, Shirley Smack, Glenda Walker, and Janet Williams."

"Next we see the studio of Enid's television station. Here we find a few girls practicing for a singing commercial. They are Arminda Dowler, Patsy Eaton, Carole Lee Feuquay, and Zona Hays. Duane Moulton, now "King of the Cowboys," is preparing for his show, "Rustlers on the Purple Cactus." His leading lady is Mary Lou "Tex" McCreary, and the villain is Richard "Shady Deal" Schroeder. There seems to be a big crowd of girls waiting at the door of the matinee idol of millions, Tom Stoalabarger. As we look closer, these girls are Patty Hildabrand, Mary Jean Hinman, Betty Hoskins, Maureen Hunnicutt, Carolee Jantz, Shirley White, and Allene Baker. Also at the studio is an all-girl orchestra composed of Clarita LaForge, Marie Welch, Dorotha Tribble, Patricia Shaver, Caroline Schroeder, Doris Saeger, Norma Wilkins, Marilyn Fourier and directed by concert violinist Jackie Darnall."

"Our last stop seems to be at a dirigible hangar. Here we find Elaine Durkin, girl champion dirigible racer and her crew of seven. These are Marcy Lee Rhodes, Irene Sanchez, Lou Ann Schmidt, Jody Wiens, Joy Cox, Darline Hanks, and Sara Jane Marler. They are being met by the three designers of the huge blimp; John Hume, Alvin Bilderback and Phil Manderscheid. Ah, yes, it's a great day for Elaine. She has won the women's loving cup in blimp sky-writing."

Charlotte Kretsch, Ruth Scott, Cecil Gott, and Perry McCoy, former sponsors of the class of '52 are now all teaching school in the South Sea Islands, where there are no tornadoes or earthquakes. They report that their kindergarten classes are doing quite well.

"George Washington Slept Here"

—BY—

Wahneta Cooper

The building shook with applause and laughter as the curtain fell on the Junior Class Play. The cast relaxed, the crews sighed, for the job was finished. The big night they had been waiting and working for, for weeks, had come and gone and marked as another smash hit.

Now let's remember, let's see how it all started. Of course the play had to be chosen, one with zim and pep, one which would keep the audience on the edge of their seats (unless they became overjoyed and toppled off). "GEORGE WASHINGTON SLEPT HERE" by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman seemed to fit the bill, that is, if it were properly produced. To do that, it meant good actors and actresses, good stage hands, good directors and a lot of hard work.

Tryouts were announced and from those who participated, 17 had to be suited and chosen for the important role each was to portray. The big day came, and the cast was announced as follows: Dwayne Sterling, Mr. Kimber; Jon Lew Mackey, Newton Fuller; Donna Campbell, Annabelle Fuller; Betty V. Smith, Madge Fuller; Phil Stuart, Steve Eldridge; Mary Beth Garnett, Katie; Marilynn Rempel, Mrs. Douglas; Richard Massey, Clayton Evans; Maudine Albert, Rena Leslie; Norella Doane, Hester; Jerry Coffin, Raymond; Leo Dance, Uncle Stanley; Tommy Silver, Leggett Frazer; Bob Jernigan, Tommy Hughes; Darrell McGugin, Sue Barrington; Barbara Autry, Marian Wilcox; Bob Phillips, Mr. Prescott.

But it took more than these 17 Juniors to make this play a hit. It took long hours of faithful work by such as Larry Albright, stage manager, Sandra Ritchie, rehearsal assistant and the prompters, Gail Harriss and Nedra Sue Marquis. The role of stage carpenter, which played a great part in the success of the play, was handed to Bob Jernigan, David Lang, Truman Netherton, Lonnie Brandenburg, John Karrenbrock, Donald Carlton, Arno Pautsch, Jimmy Payne, Tommy Silver and Marilynn Rempel. The lights were handled by Truman Netherton, Jim Sneed and John Karrenbrock Sound Effects were given over to Larry Albright and Gail Harriss, while David Lang and Truman Netherton added special effects. Lee Wickline, Jane Neilson, Duane Berry, Joyce Schwedland, Pat Thurman and Paula Kirk were responsible for properties while Marilyn Cannon, Nancy Fowler, Gail

Juniors

—BY—

Carole Gungoll

Mother picked up a small piece of pink net from the old black trunk. Her thoughts raced back to the night she wore her pink net formal, and tears swelled up in her eyes as she remembered her part in the Junior-Senior Reception way back in 1952. The class sponsors, Homer Henson, Ruth Moyer, Joe Leach, and Carol Spencer, and the class officers, Norman Lamb, President; Jon Caton, Vice-President; Sue Alexander, Secretary; Jim Bray, Treasurer; and Rex Lukenbaugh, Reporter; really did a good job of planning the reception. It went over with a real bang!

In another part of the trunk, Mother found an old white sweater with an "E" sewed on. She had been plenty active in Bravettes that year along with thirty-two other Junior girls. That was the year the boys' pep club, the Braves, was re-organized. Some fifteen Junior boys had joined, Mother remembered.

Just then the front door slammed. "I'm up in the attic, Father," she called.

Father had a broad grin on his face as he entered the room. "Guess who I saw today! Do you remember Hudson Wilcox, the speech director at the high school? We talked over all the good times we had producing our Junior Play, 'GEORGE WASHINGTON SLEPT HERE.' Larry Albright and Nedra Sue Marquis put a lot of energy and work into the stage management. Doane, Jerry Coffin, Leo Dance, Tom Silver, Bob Jernigan, Darrell McGugin, Barbara Autry, and Bob Phillips devoted their time and talents as members of the cast."

"Look here, Father!" Mother exclaimed, holding up an old blue football jersey.

"Old number thirteen was pretty lucky for me," Father laughed. "There were quite a few Juniors on the team that year: Max Brady, Jim Bray, Jim Barnes, Aubrey Bristow, Paul Callas, Jon Caton, Don Cummings, Worth Clark, Jerry Haskins, Rocky Hughes, Marvin Kline, Norman Lamb, Keith Lynn, Jon Mackey, Richard Massey, Jerry Maupin, Glen Painter, Delbert Peyton, Bob Phillips, DeRoose Raymond, Jack Reed, LeRoy Roberts, John Bell, and J. B. Hathoot."

"Why, look here," Father exclaimed. "Look at this old black swimming suit. Where did it come from, Mother?"

"I spent a lot of time in that suit practicing for the Aquaette water show. My Junior friends Barbara Autry, Carol Codner, Nedra Sue Marquis, Sue Temple, Marjorie Lowe, Wanda Woy, Sharon Ruch, Evelyn Leachman, Baynard Eitelman, Jane Neilson, Sandra Brown, Verna Jo Walker, Gail Harriss, Pat Holloway, Maudine Albert, Donna Campbell, Doris June Lebow, and Geraldine Whitsitt, all took part in the show, 'Under Western Skies'."

"Well, look here!" Father exclaimed, holding up a tiny gold basketball on a chain. On it was written the words, "State Champions, 1952." "What a season!" he recalled. "There were two Juniors on the championship team, John Bell and Arnold Krause. There were also five other Juniors playing basketball for Enid High that year: Dick Champlin, Derril Hoyt, Rockne Hughes, Rex Lukenbaugh, and Jim Reynolds."

"Weren't you on the track team, Father?" questioned Mother. "I believe you gave me your ribbons and medals to keep.'

"Yes," laughed Father, "My teammates, Max Brady, Worth Clark, Jerry Dorn, Rockne Hughes, Jon Mackey, Richard Massey, Jerry Maupin, Delbert Peyton, and LeRoy Roberts, used to tease me about that. They were a swell bunch of guys!"

Mother's eye twinkled. "I remember I never could decide whether to watch the track team or the baseball team practice. You remember you had a little competition from these boys. Fifteen Junior boys went out for the team: Walter Isaacs, Jim Bray, Aubrey Bristow, Bob Brown, Paul Callas, Jon Caton, Jerry Haskins, Ronald Hoskins, Marvin Kline, Norman Lamb, Keith Lynn, Glen Painter, Bob Phillips, DeRoose Raymond, and Jack Reed. I also watched the Junior boys on the golf team: David Selby, Dick Champlin, Buddy Goltry, and Bob Shultz."

"We had a lot of smart Juniors that year besides you," retorted Mother. "They were: Maudine Albert, Barbara Autry, Barbara Barnes, Jim Barnes, Norma Barnes, Duane Berry, Pat Burkett, Mary Martha Byrd, Ronald Cain, Jon Caton, Marilyn Chapek, Jack Dage, Charles DeLisle, Norella Doane, Billie Ann Dunaway, Rita Ewing, Maynard Ewton, Marilyn Fuqua, Mary Beth Garnett, Derril Hoyt, Marvin Kirk, Paula Kirk, David Lang, Nedra Sue Marquis, Jane Neilson, Truman Netherton, Betty Ogden, Roberta Pyle, Marilynn Rempel, Nate Scarritt, David Selby, Sandra Snoddy, Betty Stetznisch, Joyce Strickland, Phil Stuart, Doris Tackett, Gene Thrasher, and Tommie Lou Wright."

"Say, you've got quite a memory, Mother," smiled Father, "but I'm just about as good. I can remember all the Juniors in Student Council that year. They were: Max Newland, Shirley Smith, Tommie Lou Wright, Sue Temple, Roberta Pyle, Jimmy Coleman, J. B. Hathoot, Gene Thrasher, Paula Kirk, Bill Pitts, Norman Lamb, Jean Wilkinson, Philip Stuart, Jarilyn Russell, Pat Burkett, Maynard Ewton, and Lee Wickline."

"Well, Mother, you just about have me, there. Maybe if I concentrate, I can remember the Junior girls in Chorus. Let me see . . . There was Patsy Anthony, and Shirley Beckham, Barbara Blake, Sandra Byers, Marilyn Cannon, Marie Cunningham, Merle Cunningham, Wanda Elledge, Jean Jackson, Doris Johnson, Belva Kelly, Betty Ann McGee, Carol Marquis, Jo Anne Martin, Patty Mason, Marilyn Minton, Delores Morris, Shirley Morrison, Sarah Pellow, Roberta Pyle, Glenda Rash, Beverley Reed, Betty Smith, Thelma Spaulding, Donna Sturgeon, Jeanette Swartout, Edith Vogt, Kathryn Vogt, Leatrice Webb, Barbara White, Martha Wilhoit, Tommie Lou Wright, and Sandra Yoder."

"I'll still have the last laugh. Marvin Anderson, Duane Berry, Jerry Carter, Jon Caton, Billy Davenport, Ronald Hoskins, Rockne Hughes, Neal Jones, Paul Kirk, Arno Pautsch, Bob Phillips, George Reddick, Edgar Simon, and Lee Wickline: all these Juniors were in the Boys' Chorus."

"I give up, Mother," Father exclaimed as he threw up his hands. "You're too much for me."

As they started down the stairs arm in arm, Mother turned. "It was really quite a year, wasn't it, Father!"

Sophomores

Norma Jean Hoover

Dear Diary,

I enrolled for my Sophomore year of school today. It was a great experience which I have been looking forward to for a long time, only to find the road ahead was going to be rough, with rocks like geometry, history, and Latin.

Here I am three weeks later further down that long path of learning with a few of the hard bumps passed waiting and wondering when the next one will pop up to jar my progress.

Today we elected officers to help our class progress. They are Bill McDaniel, President; Elizabeth Marshall, Vice-President; Bruce Hinson, Secretary; Judy Cromwell, Treasurer; and Narda Wilcox, Reporter.

Assisting the class officers are the able Student Council members consisting of Judy Cromwell, Shirley Dee, Bob DeGarimore, Ann Earnest, Patty Garber, Christine Hartline, Dixie Lee Ingham, Louis Lavicky, Bill McDaniel, Dick McKnight, Rosemary Mahaffey, Travis Miles, La Vena Park, Sylvia Sampson, Shirley Sidwell, and Jaunita Skarky.

The road wasn't so tough for some because twenty-five Sophomores made the Oklahoma Honor Society. IN MEMORIAM

Roy Born

—BY—

D'Ella Bratcher, Shirley Franks

From the carefree midst of Sophomores, on February 19, 1952, one was taken. He was Roy Born, a good Scout who brightened the day of his schoolmates. Roy was the third member of his family to have attended Enid High, his father, Emery Born, and his brother, John Born, having preceded him. Boys chorus and mixed chorus, plus being an active Boy Scout, made up his day along with the usual subjects that make up a Sophomore's curriculum. Roy's quiet manner and shy grin brought happiness to those who knew him, especially the members of his Sophomore Class. Narda Wilcox, one of his schoolmates, has composed a poem in memory of Roy that speaks for all his many friends.

TRIBUTE TO ROY BORN

Our halls are not so cheery
The way they used to be—
A face that was familiar then
We now no longer see.
We miss his smile and friendly, "Hi!"
That brightened up our day;
He was an inspiration, too,
For all who passed his way.
To everyone who knew him
He was a faithful friend,
A loyal Scout, a jolly pal,
On whom we could depend.
We shared our joys and griefs with him,
But now he's gone away . . .
Yet only to another world
Where we'll meet again someday.

"Under Western Skies"

—BY—

Margy Gifford

Plainsmen came to Enid High School in real form on March 24 and 25 with the second annual water show, sponsored by Miss Pat Armould. The title "Under Western Skies," only hints at the real Cowboy and Indian action in the show.

Time: 8:00-9:30 p.m.

Setting: Enid High School swimming pool.

Cast: The Aquaettes.

Narrators: Sharon Bruer and Norma Hoover.

Act 1—Ten Little Indians
Director—Snooty Eitelman

"One little, two little, three"—in fact ten little Indians were the characters in this act. The cast was made up of Marjorie Lowe, Shirley Smack, Donna Campbell, Sandra Brown, Sue Temple, Barbara Autry, Jane Neilson, Margaret Neilson, Ann Earnest, Verna Jo Walker. They wore feathers in their hair, black suits trimmed in red and danced to drums in the water.

Act II—Square Dance
Director—Carole Gungoll

A western show wouldn't be complete without having square dancing. Maudine Albert, Sharon Ruch, Mickey Webber and Evelyn Leachman were the girls, Marjorie Lowe, Wanda Woy, Beth Pellow, and Nedra Sue Marquis the boys. The girls wore yellow bonnets and aprons with all colored bathing suits, the boys wore old fashioned bathing suits, hats, guns and holsters.

Act III—"Indian Legend"
Director—Jane Neilson

This act was the symbol of the North Star and Big Dipper. Little Ugly Face, Nedra Sue Marquis, wore a white bathing suit with sequins. Her six sisters were Jerry Whitsitt, Gail Harriss, Cerita Oliver, Christine Hartline, Verna Jo Walker, and Sue Temple. The Frog, Barbara Autry, wore a green bathing suit. The act ended with the forming of the North Star and the Big Dipper painted with luminous paint glowing in the dark with the lights dimmed.

Act IV—"Pecos Bill"
Director—Sandra Brown

Pecos Bill tried to tame the cyclone, and after he did that the cycloners went out, and Slue-Foot Sue came in. She was from the East and Pecos Bill showed her around. The cast was made up of Marjorie Lowe, Margaret Neilson, Pat Holloway, Carol Codner, Snooty Eitelman (Pecos Bill), Shirley Smack (Slue-Foot Sue), Beth Pellow, Mickey Webber, Ann Earnest, and Darrell McGugin. The cast wore black bathing suits trimmed in red.

Act V—"Fire Dance"
Director—Barbara Autry

God inspired fire that would even burn in water. Evelyn Leachman, (chief of the act), and Jane Neilson, Jerry Whitsitt, Sandra Brown and Verna Jo Walker made the formation of Love, Beauty and Honor. They all wore brown suits with orange trimmings. Evelyn Leachman wore a yellow bathing suit.

Act VI—"Covered Wagon"
Director—Verna Jo Walker

The act opened when the cowboys brought a covered wagon into the water and docked it at one end of the pool. The cowboys were in the act of sleeping when the Indians came in. Forming an arrow they then encircled the cowboys and surface dived around them. The Indians were: Snooty Eitelman, Evelyn Leachman, Pat Holloway, Carol Codner, Barbara Autry, and Donna Campbell. The Cowboys were: Sharon Ruch, Jerry Whitsitt, Gail Harriss, Maudine Albert, Jane Neilson, and Shirley Smack.

A few Aquaettes, Ann Earnest, Evelyn Leachman, Pat Holloway, Gail Harriss, Wanda Jo Woy and Mickey Webber put on clown acts in between the different acts Berna Lou Byers, accompanied by Helen Mudgett, sang "Indian Love Call." Joe Leach, boys' physical education instructor, directed the acts.

The highlight of the show was the crowning of the Aquaette Queen. There were twelve candidates elected from the different organizations, Joanna Champlin, Chemistry Club; Carolyn Reynolds, Chorus; Carole Gungoll, Delta Theta; Orlene Rex, D.E.; Drue Meloy, G.A.A.; Edith Regier, N.F.L.; Elaine Durkin, Physics; Jackie Darnell, Aquaettes; Beth Pellow, Library Club; Gerry Bowden, Latin Club; and Leona Danahy, Bravettes.

The queen Beth Pellow accompanied by her eleven attendants changed the pool into an array of beauty. The Queen was presented a dozen red roses by Joe Leach while her two runner-ups, Gerry Bowden and Leona Danahy, were given corsages of white carnations. Queen Beth was escorted around the pool in a covered wagon float on the water.

Girls' State

—BY—

Carolyn Reynolds

"Ah, and once again it is time for your favorite radio station to bring you your 'Gad-about Gal' with the latest news from the Oklahoma College for Women campus in Chickasha. This week (June 2-9) the O.C.W. campus was host to 336 girls, who represented 75 cities in Oklahoma, at the annual Girls State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. Yours truly decided she would get better news if she picked out typical Girl Staters and followed them around like a second shadow, so as I approached the administration building I spotted five girls who fitted what I was looking for. I casually passed them by and heard them introducing themselves as Margy Kirkhart, Beth Pellow, Carolyn Reynolds, D'Ella Bratcher and Nancy Wagner to one of the many new friends they were going to meet during this fun packed week. I watched as they picked their party (Boomer or Sooner), were assigned to dorms, and went separate ways for one week. They were on their own now! The first evening was spent mostly in getting acquainted, but you could tell that a certain amount of friendly rivalry had already begun between the two parties, and at 11 o'clock 336 tired, happy girls said goodnight.

As the next day was Sunday, the girls got to sleep an extra hour, but they knew the day before them held much to make them glad for bedtime to come again. First there was church, then while all the girls were in their "prettiest duds," they had their picture taken on the steps of the Administration building. At 2 o'clock a general assembly was held. The two political parties got together for the first time and made plans for the biggest and best Girls State ever held. Then the city governments met, and each girl told which office she would aspire to while at G.S. After supper, Marvella Hern, Governor of the 1950 Girls State, and Betsy Klein gave interesting reports on the 1950 Girls Nation at Washington D.C. of which Marvella was President. And once again after both parties got together in the various dorms, the girls said goodnight.

On each week day morning a different city had charge of reveille and flag raising at 7:15 a.m. This was a very impressive sight, but your reporter saw no fit reason why it be held at the unearthly hour of 7:15. A devotional was also given each morning by the different cities after which classes were held. The first morning of the week (Monday) was taken up with meetings of the different cities. They elected their mayor, city manager and had a break for lunch and rest. Then that afternoon the cities were put into counties, and the county officials were nominated and elected. Since all girls are interested in making themselves more beautiful, the kind ladies of the auxiliary provided for a Richard Hudnut demonstration and lecture on personal beauty care. The demonstrator gave free samples of a lipstick that would "kiss and never tell." All the girls seemed anxious to try it out.

After reveille, breakfast, room check and the devotional the fireworks really started Tuesday. The state conventions for the two parties were held to elect their candidate for Governor. The Sooners were bound and determined to win, since their opposing party had won 9 previous times, so they chose the best candidate they could. So did the Boomers! That afternoon was set aside for campaigning, and what campaigning it was! Posters, cards, slogans, everything was used. But it was a clean fight. No "mud slinging" of any kind. And then came the time all had been waiting for. The election!!! Everyone cast their votes for the candidates they thought best qualified for the various offices, then went to their dorms to wait for the returns. There was an air of excitement and anxious waiting, and there was no set time for lights out. In fact, many girls were up to see the dawn.

As Wednesday began, I noticed a number of sad faces among the Sooners. As I inquired around I found that the reason for all the long faces was that the Boomer candidate, Annawynn DeBenning from Stillwater, had won the governorship. That morning, girls who had been elected as senators and representatives were organized into the legislature. The rest of the day was the girls till dinner. This was the inaugural dinner with many special guests and parents present. After this the beautiful and impressive in-

ROYAL CROWN COLA

Queens

—BY—

Rita Turner

This year's Senior class had an unusually large number of outstanding girls who were well qualified to fill the position of Queenship by both their looks and personality. Maybe that's why the girls on the opposite page, the Queens of the Class of 1952, were especially honored when chosen to be a Queen.

Kae Major, our small, vivacious Band Queen, has a friendly smile and just the right amount of pep to make her one of the cutest girls ever to lead the EHS Band. Kae has beautiful smiling eyes that reflect her wonderful personality.

Sharon Bruer, an enthusiastic girl with the famed poodle cut, made a darling Football Queen. Sharon cut off her hair, put on that winning grin, and looked like a typical American girl. And besides all this, she was always ready to help anyone anytime.

Darline Hanks, our lovely Basketball Queen, has a charming, sincere manner that wins her hosts of friends without half trying. Pretty as she is smart, Darline is always as neat as a pin—from the tip-top of her head right down to the ends of her toes.

Dolores Morgan is the blond beauty who was elected by the Senior Class to reign over the May Fete. Friendliness is second nature with Dolores, and her contagious laughter continually resounded through the halls.

The baseball boys certainly did a wonderful job of picking an Aquaette Queen when they chose popular Beth Pellow! This pretty lass is an expert swimmer and president of the Aquaette Club. Beth's charm and sweetness were rewarded by countless honors throughout her high school life.

Two Enid DE Members Attend State Convention at OU

With the election of 1951-52 officers Drue Meloy Saunier, President; Delores Ehrlich, Vice-President; Mary Frances Towell, Secretary; Ralph Weida, Treasurer; and Ellen Bennett, Reporter, the DE Club got off to a fast start. Drue Meloy Saunier and Jack Paup attended the State Distributive Education Convention at Oklahoma University for the election of state officers.

The annual DE-DO banquet was held March 26, at the Youngblood Hotel. The year was packed full of fun as well as business under the able direction of Perry McCoy.

Diversified Occupations Active Through Year

The Diversified Occupations class sponsored by Tom Kennedy engaged in many activities this year. The class had many weiner roasts and participated in the annual DO-DE employer-employee banquet.

Edwin Recknagel presided as president over the organization.

The group planned a trip to the Carlsbad Caverns again this school year. The class went last year enjoying it so much that they immediately chose to return.

E.H.S. Physics Club Attends Stillwater Engineering Show

Among those clubs of EHS the Physics Club cannot be forgotten. The officers for this year were Robert Muir, President; Gary Caldwell, Vice-President; Carole Gungoll, Secretary-Treasurer; with Mr. Homer Henson, the sponsor. Among the memories of the year was the trip to Stillwater to attend the Engineering show held there.

French Plays and Games Add Pleasure to French Meetings

All students taking French were, of course, members of the Les Copians. Miss Addie Fromholz sponsored the meetings held every two weeks. The officers were: Cynthia Howell, President; Marilyn Chapek, Vice-President; Nate Scarritt, Secretary; Carol Griesel, Treasurer. During each meeting two or three members of the class gave reports on the French people and their customs. The remainder of the period was spent by playing games of France. "Twenty Questions," a popular U. S. game, was a favorite game to be played. All questions were asked and answered in the French language. Short plays put on by students proved to be worthwhile as new words were constantly being put into use.

Three-Year Plan Adopted By Machine Shop Students

The machines were rolling this year in the machine shop and with the instruction of Robert Pyle, accomplished many things. There were two classes a day, each class being three hours long with room for sixteen boys in each one. This year the three year plan was adopted for boys fourteen years and over. First year students learned the operations of machines, second year were the advanced students and third year boys

Service With a Smile

—BY—

Meme Cromwell

Some unsung heroes in the halls of EHS are the custodian and cafeteria staffs headed by Charles Davis and Mrs. Mary Carlile.

The students especially appreciate them for their interest in our various activities and the pride taken in students' accomplishments.

The women who prepared our food daily gave it an extra touch with special decorations and holiday food on Thanksgiving and Christmas yet at the same nominal price.

The matrons and janitors were constantly called upon to do small favors for us that were really a great deal of trouble. Always they had a smile for us, and we count them among our best friends in Enid High School.

Chemistry Club Journeys To Blackwell Zinc Smelter

The Chemistry Club was very active this year. Many projects were carried out with the help of the sponsor, Jack McDaniel. Officers were Maynard Ewton, President; Truman Netherton, Vice-President; Marvin Kline, Secretary; David Lang, Program Chairman. Such projects as a cyclotron, the study of astronomy, building a weather station, photography and working on radios, were several projects undertaken by the chemistry students. An exciting trip was made to the zinc smelter at Blackwell, Oklahoma. Also during the year the club visited the Peerless Ice Cream plant in Enid.

Nine Mile Canyon Scene Of Party Held By Bible Club

The Bible Club this year was larger than ever before. The club was composed of all students enrolled in Bible or who had taken a course in Bible at an earlier time. A committee was appointed to nominate officers. Those elected were Darline Hanks, President; Bob Boaz, Vice-President; Barbara Autry, Secretary; Arnold Krause, Treasurer; and Dorotha Tribble, Reporter, with the able sponsor George Pratt. One of the highlights of the year's activities was a party held at the nine mile canyon in November.

Junior-Senior Reception

—BY—

Eloise Asfahl and Virginia Baldwin

Grab your six-guns, pardner, and come along. We're a heading for the rootin-tootinest Junior-Senior Reception ever. As narrator for this here shindig, I aim to take you young cowpokes back to the Oklahoma of sixty years ago. Let's amble into the old corral and see what's going on inside. Maybe those sun-bonnet gals will give us a bite of grub before it's over.

The theme for this year's reception is the greatest state of all—OKLAHOMA! Our state song, sung by the Junior sextet, opens the program, and as we listen to the song's familiar strains filling the darkened auditorium, we settle back to enjoy that which the Juniors and their class sponsors have so carefully planned for us.

Two vocal solos, "Indian Love Call" and "Land of the Sky Blue Water" transport us into the Old Indian Territory of tall green grass and bubbling streams. Fair Indian maidens and brave scouts perform their traditional dances before the lighted campfire with all the color of the authentic ceremonies.

The rhythmic patter of their moccasined feet fades and brings to a close the era of the Red Man's uncontested rule. Such songs as "Ridin Down the Old Chisholm Trail," "Red River Valley," "Home on the Range," and "Headin for the Last Round-up" usher in the new era—the Opening of the West.

Old Zeke drags out his fiddle, and the square dance is on. "Swing your partner, do-si-do" . . . their weariness is forgotten amid the gay laughter and singing. Suddenly, terrifying war whoops strike fear into all. An Indian scalping party appears, (and in the turmoil the warriors set fire to the wagon), and performs a savage war dance . . .

Another day, another era. An old fashioned surrey rolls in to the tune of "A Surrey With the Fringe on Top." A trick horse and a comedy team reflect the gayety of this age.

Then comes the oil—oil that brought wealth overnight . . . struggling farmers made millionaires . . . a new state recognized. . . . A derrick with all its promise is formed before our very eyes.

Oklahoma would not have been what it now is without Will Rogers, who comes to our Junior-Senior Reception to show us how he did his roping acts in the Ziegfeld Follies. He also brings along a chorus line from the Follies whose outstanding performance holds the close attention of all.

With a tribute to Oklahoma's own Thunderbirds, the 45th Division, the scenes move into the finale. With the capitol and oil wells in the background the curtains rise, and all the participants are there, complete with the horse and surrey. They all join in the singing of "Oklahoma," and as the music swells, the hushed listeners vow they shall never forget the Junior-Senior Reception of 1952.

SENIOR PLAY

"Abe Lincoln In Illinois"

—BY—

Carole Lee Feuquay and
Marcy Lee Rhodes

An illiterate learning to read, a tavern brawl, a love scene, and the death of his first love are all parts of Abraham Lincoln's life portrayed in the play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." The characters of the play, presented by the Senior class of 1952, were so superbly portrayed with such dramatic force, that the audience felt they were living in the 1830's with the characters.

Authentic 19th century costumes were used in the three-act production, directed by Hudson Wilcox. Robert Emmett Sherwood, the author, covers the period of Lincoln's life that dealt with politics, from the time he first became interested until he left for the nation's capital to take the oath of President of the United States.

The first of the twelve scenes finds Abe (Brad McDonald) in Mentor Graham's (Don Yule) cabin in Salem, Illinois. Mentor is teaching Abe to read.

Abe lost his first love, Ann Rutledge, (Earl Jane Whisler) from a brain disease, soon after confessing his devotion to her.

Next we see Abe five years later as partner of Billy Herndon (Carlan Crawford) in a law office. He is only thirty-one years old, but his youth was buried with Ann Rutledge.

Mary Todd, (Benalea Baker) daughter of a prominent banker, set her cap for Abe Lincoln, but her plans were upset when she received a letter from him saying he would not marry her.

Two years later, Seth Gale (Lawrence Swink), an old friend, had a son very sick and near death. It was then Lincoln realized his mistake, and returned to Mary to ask her hand in marriage.

From this point on, Lincoln's interest in politics grew greater and greater until he was finally elected President in 1860. The curtain drew a line between the nineteenth and twentieth centuries as Abe Lincoln made his triumphant farewell address from the platform of a train in Springfield, Illinois.

Other players in the April 29 production were: Ronald Bobbitt—Ben Mattling, Judge Bowling Green—Robert Muir, Ninian Edwards—Garlan Braithwaite, Joshua Speed—John Dykes, Trum Cogdal—Bob Dillon, Jack Armstrong—Harold Pratt, Bab—Kendall Noah, Feargus—Ralph Weide, Jasp—Chuck Bond, Nancy Green—Norma Wilkins, Elizabeth Edwards—Sarah Lou Wells, the Edwards' maid—Barbara Holden, Aggie Gale—Edith Regier, Gobey—Gene Kirkham, Stephen A. Douglas—Lawrence Neill.

Willie Lincoln—James Williamson, Robert Lincoln—Bill Shore, the Lincolns' maid—Jody Wiens, Crimmin—Edwin Recknagel, Rev. Dr. Barrick—David Tarpenning, Sturveson—Bill Donnell, Jed—Jere Fisher, Phil—Gilbert Ives, Captain Kavanaugh—Bruce Baldwin, major of militia—Jack Harris.

The usherettes were: Pat Eaton, Carole Lee Feuquay, Barbara Patterson, Marcy Lee Rhodes, Mary Lou McCreary, Shirley White, Norma Jean Hoover, Alene Brown, Verna Mae Cox, Shirley Bradley, Beth Loudenslager, Arminda Dowler, Patty Hildabrand,

May Fete

by

JOANNA CHAMPLIN

The park is cool and quiet and green,
No one is there; no one can be seen.
The twilight sun streams through the leaves,
Through the intertwined laciness of the trees.

Colors appear coming down the walk,
All is yet silent except for low, subdued talk.
"The Seniors are here, they've come to praise
The beautiful Dolores, Queen of May."

The procession begins; the flags lead all,
The flag of our country, so straight and tall,
The flag of our school, old E.H.S.,
May the blue and white ever be blessed.

The flower girls pass and strew as they go
The beautiful blossoms, pink, blue, and yellow.
The crown is borne on a pillow of white,
By a proud little fellow who makes a cute sight.

All can see as they cheer and applaud
That here comes Dolores escorted by Claude.
The Seniors did well to choose this fine pair,
For to Dolores and Claude none can compare.

Two little girls with faces abeam
Think it's so much fun to carry the train of the Queen
The royal couple lead their court:
Nine beautiful girls and their escorts.

The attendants begin with two of dark hair,
Joanna and Paul make a sweet pair.
Beverly walks together with Gene,
The blue of her dress can easily be seen.

Blue-eyed Shirley, talented Brad,
A more appealing twosome's not to be had.
Merilyn and Chuck pass next along the way.
"How happy they look," all the people say.

Along comes Beth in her pink dress,
Coupled with Dan they look fine, we confess.
Ruth Ann and Leonard both play in the band,
When they pass by they receive quite a hand.

The procession moves on and everyone sees,
These two favorites, Billy and Eloise.
Over the lake in which reflections fall,
Pass lovely Carole and her partner Paul.

One last smiling couple is yet to come,
Leona so fair, and, Rip so handsome.
All take their seats on the throne of green,
To watch the fete put on for the Queen.

The bright colors reflected from the parade 'round the lake
Are more than some sad Seniors can take,
A tear appears, they bow their heads,
The old days are over, there are to be new ones instead.

Oh how grandly the band played the processional,
And the songs by the chorus were exceptional.
The crowning of the Queen was a moment of bliss,
All who were there applauded that kiss.

As the gaily painted boats floated o'er the lagoon,
The Maypoles were wound to a melodious tune,
Bright colored streamers 'round the trees were bound,
No more beautiful picture of spring could be found.

The May Fete is finished, the sun beams have fled,
The moon in her glory has rolled out of bed.
The Seniors are leaving, their moment has gone,
But its memory ever will linger on.

The year is gone—and with it all the hard work and fun of putting out the Quill Annual and Quill Weeklies.

Since there were three classes enrolled in journalism this year, Miss Ruth Scott, journalism instructor, appointed a staff from each class with each publishing the Quill every third week. With this announcement of the first semester weekly and annual staffs in late October, the excitement began.

The students from these staffs left early October 26 to spend a very busy weekend at the Oklahoma Interscholastic Press Meet in Norman. At the meet a conference was held, during which a plaque, rating the Annual, with honors, was presented to Jo Ann Wagner, 1951 editor.

Before attending the OU-Colorado Home-Coming Game on Saturday, the staff members enjoyed a luncheon held at the Student Union Building.

They were then homeward bound and with the knowledge learned from the press meet, the Quill Annual was begun.

Although most stories weren't assigned till later in the year, the football story was written at the end of football season.

The next project which the journalism classes undertook was giving free Quills to everyone who attended Open House on November 12.

To give more students a chance of editing the Quill Weekly, Miss Scott appointed two second semester staffs from her first year classes. Since her second year students were busy at work on the Annual and more advanced creative writing, no weekly staff was appointed from that class.

Of course, the year wouldn't have been complete without some outstanding speakers talking to the journalism classes. Therefore, on September 18, they were honored to hear George Moller, a Swedish teacher, speak on his native country. Mr. Moller's Swedish accent and witty personality were very evident throughout his much enjoyed speech.

Another delightful and entertaining person, who spoke to the journalism classes, was Miss Dorothy Royse Ainslie of London, England. During the war, Miss Ainslie worked as a foreign desk editor for the Associated Press, and, at that time, she was the only woman in England to hold such a position.

She was, at the time of her speech, spending three months in the United States gathering data to be used by the information service to counteract communistic propaganda about the living conditions of the American people. A tour through a high school was included on her trip, and thus she chose Enid High.

Chief Sugar Brown, an Otto Indian, also spoke to the second year class. He and his two sons were in the show, "Distant Drums," and Sugar Brown laughingly stated, "My sons were killed about twelve times in that one show alone."

A past president of the National Classroom Teachers' Association and a present member of the National Education Staff in Washington, D.C., Miss Mary Titus, talked to Miss Scott's second year class on the need of more teachers and schools.

T. B. Hanley, former graduate of Enid High, now with the Military Intelligence, was also a guest speaker. His talk was based on his three years in Germany since the war and the two years he spent in South America.

The Plainsmen nine opened the 1952 season with a non-conference doubleheader, playing Stillwater and Garber on the home field. Provost's charges took the opener from Stillwater, 2-0, on Joe Fishinghawk's brilliant one-hitter which was the best of the Injun's career. Joe struck out 12 batsmen in the seven inning route allowing only one scratch hit. The Plainsmen dropped the nightcap to Garber, 3-2, despite Jerry Haskins' 11 strikeout performance in the four innings he pitched. Aubrey Bristow went the rest of the distance for the Plainsmen.

The team took to the road to Shawnee to play their first conference game and ran into a brick wall, as Shawnee shattered their opener, 2-1. Shawnee got only three infield hits off Haskins, but bunched them with three bases on balls in the sixth to score the necessary runs.

The Plainsmen bounced back quickly, traveling to Northeast, and broke loose with a 10-run hit attack, burying the Vikings 10-1 behind the four-hit hurling of Joe Fishinghawk. DeRoose Raymond led the Enid attack with 3 hits while Moulton, Kline, and Fishinghawk helped the cause with 2 apiece. The victory gave the Plainsmen a 1-1 record in Mid-State play.

The highly touted Capitol Hill Redskins invaded Plainsmen Field next and went home with a 2-0 victory over the Plainsmen. Jerry Brown, making his first start of the year, was the loser while giving up three of the Redskins' five hits during his three inning stand. Jerry Haskins took over from there and struck out eight batsmen. Jim Bray hit a triple trying to aid the Plainsmen's plight, but the only other hit was a single by Keith Lynn.

Golf

Richard Havenstrite

The Enid High golf team had been out less than one week when they tackled the tough Ponca City team at Ponca City, March 29. Their inexperience showed itself as they lost by a 10-2 margin. Dick Champlin was the only one able to hold his own against the rugged competition as he tied his match 1½-1½.

Another week of practice and the Plainsmen eked out a 7-5 win over Stillwater in a match featured by a 155-yard hole-in-one by Guy Fiscus, number one Stillwater golfer. Richard Havenstrite and David Selby won their matches, and for the second time in a row Dick Champlin halved his match 1½-1½, this time with Bill Wagner of the Pioneers.

April 5, Enid traveled to Blackwell where in high winds and freezing weather, they blasted the Maroons off the course with a 13-5 decision. Everyone won their match except Champlin, who for the third consecutive time tied his match 1½-1½.

The Enid strokers were host to the Classen Comets April 16, but superior manpower cost the Plainsmen an 8½-3½ decision. Enid won only one match as the Comets showed fine mid-season form.

The Plainsmen opened their biggest week of the season with a 9½-2½ loss to the Stillwater team at the lakeside course in "A and M town." This was the first of three outings in one week for the only Enid linkster to win as he defeated George Moore 2-1. On Tuesday Enid again blasted Blackwell by the identical score of their earlier match, 13-5. Enid won all the matches but one as they evened their season's play at 3 wins and 3 losses. In the final match of the week Enid was again defated by Classen 7-5 at the tough par 74 Lincoln Park golf course in Oklahoma City. Enid winners were Richard Havenstrite, who shot a 76 for the day's best score, and Buddy Goltry, who won his match 2-1.

In their last match of the season, Enid avenged an earlier loss to Ponca City by shellacing them 9½-2½ at the par 71 Oakwood course. The prep linksters won all four matches as they turned on the steam on the last nine to come from behind. Medalist honors went to Richard Havenstrite with a 74 following closely by Dan Baughman with a 76. Tom Talley, with a 79, defeated Jack Baldwin of Ponca City 2-1. Bud Goltry and Dave Selby won their match also as the Plainsmen made a complete rout of the proceedings.

On April 30, the Enid aggregation consisting of one Senior, Richard Havenstrite, two Juniors, Dave Selby and Buddy Goltry, and one Sophomore Tom Talley, journeyed to Oklahoma City to participate in the State High School tournament. There, though the competition was as rugged as the course, the Enid linksters blazed through in third place, just 3 strokes behind 4 second place teams. Capitol Hill won their meet for the second consecutive year, running away with all the medals. Richard Havenstrite led the Plainsmen offering, coming in with fourth place honors. Buddy Goltry and David Selby were tied for twelfth, and Tom Talley was right behind in fourteenth place.

When this story goes to press, the Plainsmen will be in the midst of the Mid-State Conference Tournament at the Oakwood course, May 9. They are expected to improve upon their standing in the State Tournament and should give the Hilltoppers a real run for their money. All in all, it has been a successful year for the linksters from EHS.

The Enid High School track team under the new tutoring of Coach Joe Leach got off to a slow start in the 1952 season. The thinclads, which consisted mostly of inexperienced Sophomores and Juniors improved with every outing and with the return of eleven lettermen will prove to be a tough squad to compete against next year.

On March 7 Enid had its first scheduled dual meet with Coach Ralph Tate's thinclads at Stillwater, Oklahoma. Upon arriving at Stillwater the Plainsmen found the Capitol Hill team had already arrived. Being the first outing for most of the boys, they were a little jittery and did not do anything outstanding. The teams finished with Stillwater augural ceremony was held. Bed-time came early that night, and all were glad to see it!

Thursday morning's class was all about the judicial departments of our government. Then after lunch a joint session of the House and Senate was held. The rest of the afternoon was devoted to swimming, tennis or catching up on some "shut eye." A picnic supper was held, and after that, different cities gave skits on amateur night. After a hilarious evening and an open house in the dormitories the lights were turned out on another memorable day.

When I walked onto the campus Friday morning, more sad faces met me. This time the reason for the blue expressions wasn't an election but an idea. The idea that it was their last day of a wonderful week. The idea that the next morning they would have to say good-bye to all their new friends they had made. But as the day progressed, the faces grew happier. I guess the girls decided to make the best of their last day. Most of the afternoon was given over to recreation, but a play demonstrating court in action was also in the afternoon plans. Then the time the girls had been talking about and planning for arrived. The annual Boys State-Girls State dance! They had even gone so far as to figure that there was one and one-half boys per girl. After the dance the girls went back to their dorms thinking that if the week had to end there wasn't a better way for it to.

Saturday, June 9th. A very sad day for 336 Oklahoma G.S.'s. As the girls went to reveille, you could tell they were sad to leave it, even if it did start at 7:15 a.m., and as they ate breakfast, their faces showed sadness about leaving the wonderful and delicious food they were feasting upon for the last time. After their last reveille and breakfast at G.S. the girls went to the assembly room where farewell remarks were made and the Girls Nation representatives were announced. As 10 o'clock approached, the girls realized that their time was short. And speaking of time, I see by the 'ole clock on the wall that my time for visiting with you is almost gone so I'll hang my close on this line: To you out there who are Juniors, my advice is: for a week of joy and sadness, new faces and old and all the fun you can pack into a week, go to Girls State. Bye!"

The Place to Go for Names You Know

Athletic and academic are two synonyms for D. Bruce Selby, Principal of Enid High. Mr. Selby is a native of Kentucky but he moved to Oklahoma at an early age. This versatile man was the sixth child in a family of twelve. The Selbys had their financial difficulties, therefore sending their dozen to school was sometimes almost impossible. Because his schooling was threatened Mr. Selby worked all the harder to get his education. Our principal laughingly tells of a kind of rotation plan he and his brothers worked out in order to keep in school. He would go to school a week then stay at home and work on the farm a week while his brothers did the same. He was a farm boy and with his daily chores and lessons still found time to build his background in sports. It was the small Kingfisher football team with no real coach that started him on his bright career in football.

When the dark-haired youth graduated from Kingfisher High School, he continued his schooling at Phillips University. Here he kept on playing his beloved sport—football. He played on one of the greatest or possibly the greatest football team in Phillips' history. With his brown eyes glowing Mr. Selby said, "The most thrilling moment in my life was when I ran 95 yards on a half-broken leg for a touchdown and victory."

Before Mr. Selby came to the Enid school system in 1924, he was instructor of science and sports for one year at Watonga and Superintendent of Schools at Rush Springs for two years. In 1924, he came to Enid as science teacher and basketball coach at Enid High School. After four years' service at Enid High, he became Principal at Longfellow Junior High School. After remaining as principal of Longfellow for five and one-half years, he became principal of Enid High in January, 1934, a position he still holds.

With the responsibility and work of keeping Enid High running smoothly, Mr. Selby always has time to help a student or faculty member smooth out their difficulties. He likes people, and he shows it through his genuine interest in them. Innately fun-loving and kind, Mr. Selby is always able to forget yesterday and regardless of a problem student's previous record, is the first to lend him an encouraging word upward, when and if, the student is trying.

Mr. Selby's interests are not confined to school activities alone. He plays golf, is a member of Kiwanis, the Clerk of the Session of the Presbyterian Church, a member of the Board of Control for the Oklahoma High School Athletic Association, a member of the Board of Directors of Oklahoma Education Association, and President of Mid-State Conference.

Mr. Selby resides with his wife and son, David, a junior in Enid High. His daughter, Mary Esther, now Mrs. John Saxon, lives in Tokyo, Japan, where her husband, Captain John Saxon, Jr., is stationed.

Enid owes much to Mr. Selby and his tireless energy, for it has made Enid High a pleasant combination of study and fun; a school anyone should be proud to attend, and known all over Oklahoma for its great percentage co-operation in any school activity which is in itself a tribute to the drive Mr. Selby possesses.

these are to be found in the Home Economics department under Mrs. Vance.

Enid High has an excellent art department which makes posters and decorations for the various school functions. Miss Katherine Bales heads the classes and instructs in first and second year courses. This busy department helps to make our school more attractive to attend.

If you're wondering what 2x2 is, look in the Mathematics Department headed by Miss Florel Helema. Courses in plane and solid geometry, trigonometry, algebra and advanced algebra, and high school math are taught by Miss Ruth Moore, Miss Florel Helema, Mr. Jack McDaniel, Mr. H. H. Henson, and Mr. James Yowell. If you have a problem, take it to any one of these classes, and if it's mathematical they'll solve it for you in a jiffy.

H^2O and NACL are all a part of the Science Department under Mr. H. H. Henson who also teaches biology and physics. Mr. Jack McDaniel instructs in chemistry, Mr. Harold Duckett, biology and agriculture, and Mrs. Beth Pratt, biology. If you have a bug to be analyzed or a formula to be solved, take it to the Science department.

Need a good bookkeeper, a typist, or someone to take shorthand? Look no farther than the Commerce Department under Mr. V. O. Marshall who also instructs in bookkeeping, I and II. Also in this department are Miss Muriel Koger, Miss Hazel Powers, and Mrs. Lea Ida Boyle who teach typing I and II and shorthand. Mrs. Boyle also teaches general business.

One of the most beneficial departments in Enid High is the Industrial Arts classes headed by Mr. Myrl Kirk who also teaches woodwork, and arts and crafts. Mr. James Yowell teaches mechanical drawing while Mr. Robert Pyle has charge of the fully equipped machine shop. Mr. Herbert Seem heads the printing part of this department and prints the Quill Weekly among other things. This department isn't through although school is over for the day, for Mr. Kirk instructs two classes for alults in the evening. One meets two times a week and the other, three times.

Mrs. Palmer Means heads one of the most used departments in Enid High School, the library. The Library contains approximately 10,000 books which are always available to the students. Mrs. Means has 18 helpers who check books out to the students and two others who take care of decorating the bulletin boards. The library is constantly encouraging students to visit the library, to check out books, and to read.

These departments are the parts that make the Enid High machine run. Through the years, time will erase many of the objects you now hold dear but Enid High will always hold a place in your heart because of the big part it has played in your life. Never forget it because it will never forget you.

Glee Club increasing now for several years, at this time included seventy-six members.

The Mixed Chorus made two appearances in April. The first was on the 17th when we were asked to sing for the State Garden Club. The Chamber of Commerce had a Banquet honoring DeWitt Waller, Superintendent of Schools, on his 40th year in the Enid School System, and we were asked to sing.

As usual May rolled around entirely too quick, and the "end of school bedlam" prevailed. We got off to a big start with our spring program, "Time To Sing," May 6. The Girls' Chorus blended their voices in a folk ditty called "Lollytoodum," a song about a back hills mother and her daughter. Also the girls had several popular songs such as "It's a Grand Night for Singing," "All the Things You Are," "Holiday for Strings," and "Forever and Ever," during which two couples waltzed. There was a cute little number called "Dance in the Moonlight." The Boys' Glee Club lent their talents with "Old Songs Medley," "You'll Never Walk Alone," "Cool Water," "Where, 'Ere You Walk," "Holy Lord God," and a popular number "The Night Is Young."

The Mixed Chorus had quite a repertoire of numbers. They ranged from "Shrimp Boats" to "Polly Wolly Doodle," "The Beatitudes," a beautifully composed song with words taken from the Bible, was exceptional. "Rock-A-My Soul," a Negro spiritual, was presented with gestures. "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor" was again presented due to its popularity last year. "To Music," a poem by Robert Herrick, was also presented. "Ezekial Saw De Wheel" and "He Never Said a Mumblin' Word," two well-liked Negro spirituals, found their way into the program. What would be more appropriate than a song about our dear state? We agreed and sang "Oklahoma" from the stage play by the same name.

Well, following this program was the great Tri-State festival held on May 8-9-10. There was a large per cent of the Mixed Chorus members presented in the massed Tri-State Chorus, under the direction of R. Oscar Clymer, Archie N. Jones, and a new man to Enid, Arthur E. Westbrook.

Administration

have been repaired. Two new schools—Hoover and Monroe—were opened, and two rooms were added to Taft school and three rooms to Adams. Jackson grade school and the old wing of Enid High School were redecorated.

The present School Board has made this year one of the best administrative periods in Enid's history by their untiring work and efficiency.

The students of Enid High School wish to take this opportunity to express thanks and appreciation to this wonderfully conscientious group of seven people for making our school life what it is today.

Harriss, Jane Neilson, Paula Kirk and Carol Marquis took care of costumes and make-up. David Lang was in charge of the curtains.

Let's not forget the pretty little girls in formals. Now let's glance at the play which was set in a Pennsylvania farm house, the house which Mr. Fuller bought under the assumption that George Washington had slept there, but he was soon to find out that the place not only had no water, no cesspool, no closets and no road, but also that it hadn't been Washington that had slept there but—Benedict Arnold. This was not the end of Mr. Fuller's disappointing surprises (to say the least). When he asked his rich uncle, who was visiting them, for financial help in order to save their home, he was informed that Uncle Stanly had gone broke in 1929 and had been living in pretence ever since.

Finally after having given up the possibility of getting to keep the house Uncle Stanly put on another extremely successful act which secured the needed money to save the house.

Then as the curtain was about ready to descend upon a happy family, with the house finally and securely theirs, Mr. Kimble rushes in to state "That hurricane—it's headed right this way."

Good luck, class of '52 and remember this, Always do the very best that you are able to and your great class will never be forgotten."

The two girls were turning to tiptoe quietly away from the worthy advice when Madame Zuzu's throaty exotic voice summoned them with, "That will be a dollar, please, and come back if you feel you need to know what the future holds for you because Madame Zuzu knows all, sees all, and tells all . . . . . The Vance Air Force Base presented one of the most professional assemblies of the year as the "Skyliners" took off on "Liza," and a jazzed-up version of "Barcarolle." Others featured were an accordianist, a violinist, a tap dancer, and a vocalist. The V.A.F.B. Glee Club sang "In the Still of the Night, "Dry Bones," and "Empty Saddles."

Two programs during Easter week were given over the public address. The Oklahoma College for Women Chorus of fifty voices sang three selections from the "Nutcracker Suite," two numbers from the stage hit, "Oklahoma," a Fred Waring arrangement, "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor" and several other songs.

A mixed ensemble from the chorus began the traditional Easter observance with "And He Never Said a Mumblin' Word." The Easter story was read from the Bible by Phil Stuart. Soloist Loy Dale sang "The Holy City."

Give Engines Extra Protection with HI-V-I Motor Oil...

Champlin HI-V-I motor oil stands out in any season, in temperatures hot or cold . . . at starting speeds or at higher speeds reached during the day. HI-V-I cleanses as it lubricates, ridding engines of sludge particles that would otherwise form into harmful deposits resulting in damaging abrasive wear.

HI-V-I is an especially stable motor oil, because of its high viscosity index. This simply means that it flows freely at starting temperatures and retains its full body for complete protection at high speeds.

Give your car engine extra lubrication protection with Champlin HI-V-I motor oil . . . do it today!

rally by Northeast to win 49-47 in their first mid-state conference basketball game. It was the accurate shooting eye of Richard Wackerman who hit 25 points, that paved the way to victory for the Plainsmen.

Enid suffered its second defeat of the season to Capitol Hill 43-38, in what proved to be a cold first half for the Plainsmen, who were never ahead in the game.

Gene Andruss was high man for Enid with 10 points. This put the total record for the season, six wins and two losses.

The Plainsmen were again hit by a cold first half with the hitting of only one field goal. The Central Cardinals won the game by the score of 46-42. Eleven points made Arnold Krause the high point man of the evening with Bill Weldon following him with 8 points.

Enid was leading the Norman Tigers going into the fourth quarter when the death of Beryl Knox, who was officiating the game due to the absence of an official, stopped the game. This was a great ending for a great man, who loved people and basketball.

In a game that proved that free throws count, the Plainsmen rallied to edge Alva 48-46 at the Goldbug gym. The Plainsmen trailed up to the last quarter when they surged ahead to win.

Wackerman, Weldon, and Havenstrite were the big guns for Enid with 17, 13 and 12 points respectively.

Again they were on the road, and this time fate changed hands. Enid lost a heartbreaker to Classen of Oklahoma City, 39-38, by a free-throw in the final moments of the game.

It was a cold first half that stopped the Plainsmen's drive. Richard Wackerman managed to hit for 14 points, and Richard Havenstrite counted for 11 points. The standings for Mid-State then showed Enid in fourth place.

The Plainsmen were still in the deepfreeze during the first quarter with the Northeast Vikings, but they managed to keep up with them at the half. From then on it was a different story, the heat was on, and Enid knew it. They surged ahead, working fast break after break to win 58-49. Richard Wackerman duplicated his feat of three weeks before by scoring 25 points against the Vikings.

Accuracy at the free throw lines made the Enid-Shawnee tilt a tight one. The Plainsmen were losing at the end of the game, but a free throw by John Bell tied it up, and Enid again went into an overtime. The overtime proved fatal for Enid with Shawnee scoring two points and winning the game 56-54. That was another heartbreaker for Enid.

The Enid Plainsmen caught fire in their final home game of the season taking a 64-55 victory over the Capitol Hill Redskins. Richard Wackerman was the "sparkplug" of Enid hitting 28 points, the most scored this year by a Plainsman.

Enid now had a 12-6 record for the season and a 5-5 record for Mid-State play.

Enid was routed 46-44 by Central in the final 27 seconds of play, Polson of Central pushed in a jump shot. Havenstrite and Andruss were the big guns for Enid with 11 and 10 points respectively.

In the Beryl Knox Memorial game played at convention hall in honor of Beryl Knox who suffered a fatal heart attack in the Norman game, the Plainsmen defeated Alva 60-38. This was the third time that Enid had defeated Alva this year.

Richard Wackerman was high with 18 points, and Bill Weldon was close behind with 13 points.

In the final game of the season Enid defeated the first place Shawnee Wolves 53-52.

The game was decided in the final moments of play when Bill Weldon's attempt for a free throw was off, and he took the rebound and sank the follow-up to win the game.

John Bell played his finest offensive game of the season by scoring 16 points for the leading scorer of the night. Richard Wackerman was right behind him with 13 points.

The Plainsmen had to play great ball to win the Regional tournament played at convention hall. In the first game they had to come from behind to beat a tough Guthrie five 48-42. It took a 20-point drive in the fourth quarter paced by Bell and Krause for the Plainsmen to win.

It was the same story in the second game against Blackwell, Enid had to come from behind in the fourth quarter to win 54-40. Richard Wackerman and Richard Havenstrite were high for Enid with 13 and 12 points respectively.

Gene Andruss made 16 points in helping Enid defeat Woodward 41-32. It was a tough battle the first 16 minutes of play, but Enid pulled ahead at the half and were never seriously threatened the rest of the game.

The Plainsmen journeyed to Oklahoma City for the state tournament with the "fighting spirit," and in the first game against the highly rated Will Rogers team from Tulsa, upset them 58-51.

Arnold Krause was the big gun for Enid with 18, and Wackerman, Bell, and Weldon were close behind with 12, 10, and 9 points respectively.

In the second game against the Northeast Vikings, whom Enid had defeated twice before, Enid won 55-54 in one of the most exciting games of the year. From the very start it was nip and tuck, first it was Enid in the lead and then the Vikings. It was all tied up at the half 25-25, and then Northeast jumped ahead with a 10-point lead, 39-29. Time was called, and then bedlam broke loose in the stadium, the Plainsmen scored 14 points while holding the Vikings scoreless and again the see-saw affair started and continued up to the final minute when the fourth quarter ended in a 49-49 tie.

Paul Russell was the hero of the game in the overtime period when he made the winning point of the game at the free throw line with only seconds to go.

Enid had it a little bit easier in the final game against Ardmore when they played almost perfect ball to win 64-53. Arnold Krause was the key man in the Enid attack as he hit 12 points to pace the winners to the final gun. He played with the handicap of four fouls in the last half.

It was Arnold Krause's superb playing in the tournament that won him the high honor of making the All-Tournament team.

Other honors were bestowed on the Plainsmen this year. Richard Wackerman made the All-State team in the guard position, and Andruss, Wackerman and Krause made the All-Northwestern Oklahoma team.

Coach Paul Geymann was named the "Northwestern Oklahoma Coach of the Year."

This was the first time since 1943 that an Enid team has won the state championship.

Enid will lose all of the men on the "A" team this year except Arnold Krause and John Bell.

Boys like Jim Reynolds, Bruce Medley and Loyd Hurd are expected to help the Plainsmen's cause next year.

Undefeated Classen was next on the agenda, and the Plainsmen sacked up their second league victory, beating the Comets easily, 10-2. Led by Injun Joe Fishinghawk, who gained his third win in three starts while striking out the ten batters, the Plainsmen exploded with eight tallies in the fourth inning. Fishinghawk gave a big boost to the cause by hitting a double and a single in three trips up, the two-bagger found the bases loaded in the big fourth frame. The win gave the Plainsmen a 2-2 record in Mid-State play and third place in the standings.

The Plainsmen traveled to Norman next and blanked the Tigers 6-0 behind the excellent six-hit pitching of Jerry Haskins. Haskins struck out 18 batsmen while gaining his first win in three starts. Jim Bray and DeRoose Raymond led Enid's nine-hit attack with two hits apiece. Bray hit a home run in the first stanza.

Cold weather was no match for Joe Fishinghawk in the next game with the Central Cardinals. Injun Joe allowed the Cards only two hits as the Plainsmen shut out Central 4-0. The win put the Enid nine in second place in the conference with a record of 4-2. Radcliff's three-bagger in the first inning was the longest clout of the day.

The Plainsmen traveled to Garber for a return match with the Wolverines, and successfully avenged an earlier loss to Bob Estep's charges by stopping Garber's prize twirler, Dusty Eby, 5-2. Aubrey Bristow allowed only five hits in gaining his first decision of the campaign.

The Plainsmen beat Shawnee at Plainsmen Field in the ten-inning thriller, 3-2, when Jim Bray smashed a single into rightfield to drive in Marvin Kline to ice the game. It was Joe Fishinghawk's fifth straight win and put the Plainsmen in second place in the standings with a 5-2 record. Aubrey Bristow wielded the big bat for the day, getting three hits in four trips.

The locals, with the help of eight errors by the Northeast Vikings and 17 stolen bases, bested the Norsemen 11-3 to maintain their second place standing in copping their sixth win in eight league starts. Jerry Haskins hurled hitless ball in all but the sixth inning and fanned 12 batters to shove his seasonal strikeout total to 62 in 31 innings. Raymond and Caton paced the 11-hit attack with three blows apiece.

The Plainsmen entered the University of Oklahoma tournament, which Enid won last year, but were jumped by Duncan in their first trial, 9-5. The Demons handed Joe Fishinghawk his first loss after the Injun rolled up five straight wins.

The Warriors rang up their seventh win against two losses in Mid-State play while beating the Central Cards 2-1. The Plainsmen scored both their runs in the fifth while "Crocky" Brown held the Cards to one run in the sixth.

Jerry Haskins, the hard-luck pitcher of the Plainsmen, dropped a two-hit game to Stillwater as the Plainsmen bowed out of the Regional finals, 7-3. Wildness and errors by his teammates cost Haskins the game. Enid won their semi-final game against Chilocco, 10-4.

Three Mid-State games were rained out during the season and had to be postponed to a later date. So, with three more games yet to play, this article goes to press with the Plainsmen solidly in second place in the conference with a record of seven wins and two defeats.

first, Capitol Hill second, and Enid, close behind.

In the individual events Enid placed John Bell first in the disc and second in the shot-put. Richard Massey and Norman Duckworth took first and second in the 220-yard dash, respectively. Roy Dennis took third in the century and Rooky Dykes third in the quarter mile.

Because of the bad weather and the inability of getting outside to practice, the trip to the Southwest Exposition Meet at Fort Worth, Texas on March 15 was cancelled.

On April 4 the harriers of Enid High School went to the record smashing meet at Duncan. Eddie Roberts, Stillwater ace, set a new national record in the low hurdles running over the sticks in the time of 18.8 seconds beating the previous mark of 18.9 set in 1950 by Stevens Turner of Glendale, California.

Bill Curtis of Waurika, Roberts' potent rival, tied the national record in the high hurdles with the time of fourteen seconds flat. Enid grabbed off two fourth places in the torrid competition. The Plainsmen mile relay combination of Rooky Dykes, Jerry Maupin, Frank Dorman, and Bob Allison placed fourth, and John Bell was fourth in the discus throw.

Coach Joe Leach took sixteen Enid harriers to the gigantic Oklahoma A. and M. relays which had the greatest number of athletes participating since its origin. John Bell was the only one to scratch the win column with third in the discus throw.

Enid High School took seven and a half points to take fifth in the Mid-State meet at Norman, April 12. With Classen running away with almost every event. Enid's mile relay finished fourth, and John Bell, weightman, grabbed the other six points with second place in the shot-put and third in the discus.

On April 23 after having a week of bad weather, the Enid Plainsmen track and field squad went to Fairview, which has had five state championships out of the last eight years in class "B", for a dual meet in preparation for the Regional meet the following Friday. The EHS team ran up a total of fifty-one points to Fairview's eight taking first in all events except the 880 run.

Those winning first in the individual events were Edwin Recknagel, first in high hurdles and high jump; Jon Lew Mackey, in the mile; and Richard Massey, the 100-yard dash and the 220. John Bell won first in the shot and disc with Worth Clark taking the quarter mile.

The 880 relay team of Chuck Bond, Norman Duckworth, Rocky Hughes, and Richard Massey took first along with the mile relay team of Worth Clark, Jerry Maupin, Frank Dorman, and Rooky Dykes.

On the following weekend the EHS thin-clads journeyed to Tonkawa for the regional meet. With Stillwater running away with the meet with sixty-five points, Enid finished fourth with twenty-five points.

There were only 3 points separating the second and fourth teams, when the last event, the mile relay was about to be run. Enid was second with twenty-five points followed by Woodward with twenty-six and Alva with twenty-seven points.

With the mile relay deciding the meet, Worth Clark was fouled and crowded into the rail on the southwest turn losing his stride and position in the race. The boys made a game try but finished fourth, which put Enid fourth in the meet.

Enid qualified five boys for the state meet. The boys were John Bell in the shot and disc, Richard Massey in the century and 220, Bill McDaniel in the 100-yard dash and Edwin Recknagel and Donnie Weldon, a Freshman, in the high jump.

All five of the Enid boys went to the finals of the state meet, with John Bell being the only one to come home with the bacon, taking third in the discus throw.

Upon the checking, in spite of shoes and sweat clothes, the general comment of the squad was that although they had a lot of sore muscles, were ill several times and had to run when they felt like dropping dead, they enjoyed the track season immensely, and with the possibilities of a cinder track next year, there is a bright future for the track squads to come for Enid High School.

Those lettering in track were: John Bell, Bill McDaniel, Richard Massey, Edwin Recknagel, Donnie Weldon, Rooky Dykes, Frank Dorman, Bob Allison, Worth Clark, Jerry Dorn, Jon Mackey, Jerry Maupin, Norman Duckworth, and Dick McKnight, manager.

Joe Leach, new track coach, came to Enid High from Corpus Christi University, Corpus Christi, Texas, where he graduated last year. Mr. Leach, who was originally from the deep South, joined the EHS faculty family as assistant coach to Joe Gibson, head coach. He introduced a very attractive wife to his students and friends at EHS following her mid-year college graduation in January. Although only belonging to the Enid High faculty for this year, Mr. Leach has won many friends and influenced many students.

Boys' State

—BY—

Garlan Braithwaite and John Dykes, Jr.

On June 2, 1951, twelve E.H.S. students joined 542 other Oklahoma boys on the south base of Norman, Oklahoma to participate in the Tenth annual Oklahoma Boys' State, sponsored by the American Legion. A week of intensive study and actual practice in the administration of our state government followed.

Upon arriving, little time was lost in getting to work, such as registration at Boys' State Headquarters; assignment of political parties and cities and the distribution of the official Boys' State T-shirt. Saturday afternoon we toured the O.U. campus.

The wlecoming address was given by Dr. G. L. Cross, President of the University of Oklahoma, who was followed by Dr. H. V. Thornton, Director of Boys' State. Following this general session, city party caucuses were held. In these meetings candidates for city offices wre chosen as well as delegates to state and county party conventions.

Church services were held Sunday morning for all those wishing to attend. Sunday afternoon party platforms were drawn up by the state political leaders. Monday night, after the platforms had been read to the entire state and the principal candidates were introduced, an old time political rally was held by each of the parties. They were complete with torches and candidates on the shoulders of their supporters.

The elections were held Tuesday with everyone anxiously waiting the results. City elections were held on Monday in order not to conflict with the state.

Enid's representatives and some of the offices to which they were elected are: Leonard Atkinson, Candidate for Mayor; Chuck Bond, City Health Commissioner; Garlan Braithwaite, Candidate for Senate, member of the bar; Quinn Brisben, member of the bar; Carlan Crawford, Candidate for Senate, Assistant Health Commissioner; Bob Dillon, City Water Commissioner, member of the bar; David King, Police Chief; Kendall Noah, City Commissioner, Candidate for Lt. Governor, member of the bar; Robert Muir, Health Commissioner; Harold Pratt, City Commissioner; David B. Tennison, member of the bar, County Attorney; Gerald Unruh, City Commissioner.

Following the election, the governor carried out his duties, part of which were to appoint state officials and choose his honorary colonels. Enid had more than her share of both. Quinn Brisben received an honorary colonel degree and was appointed the States Pardon and Parole Officer. Kendall Noah was given an honorary colonel degree and appointed State Highway Commissioner. Garlan Braithwaite also received an honorary colonel degree and was appointed to the State Highway Commission.

Two of the big events of Boys' State were the variety programs on Wednesday and Thursday nights. Each party selected outstanding talent and presented their show. Enid received an unusual honor here, both parties selected an Enid boy for MC, the Boomers choosing Garlan Braithwaite and the Sooners choosing Quinn Brisben. Leonard Atkinson and Chuck Bond did their part in the shows; Chuck, in the band, playing first trombone and Leonard in one of the skits.

When Friday night rolled around, it was time for the event everyone had been talking about all week. The citizens of Boys' State took a bus ride, complete with police escort, to Chickasha for the annual Girls' State-Boys' State Ball. It was a big affair and of course enjoyed by all.

Boys' State was drawing to a close now, but it had not been all work, nor all politics, for a varied recreational program was carried and baseball tournaments were held, and the large outdoor swimming pool was available to the Boys' Staters in the afternoons.

Saturday morning was spent packing, taking pictures, and saying good-bye to new friends. The houses of the Tenth Oklahoma Boys' State Congress finished their business and adjourned, with many worthwhile bills and resolutions on record.

Those seven days of governmental study had been profitable to all. New friendships had been made, friendships which will be remembered and cherished throughout the years, and it is hoped that through this program the representatives may become better citizens.

This gave the students the satisfaction of seeing their own work in the down-town paper. These inexperienced students felt a debt of gratitude to the News and Eagle for giving them that opportunity.

The first official meeting of the Annual staff was held February 28 at the Don-Paul Cafeteria. During the meeting a report was given on the advertising sold, and further assignments were handed out.

On March 29, some of the staff members journeyed to a spring press meet again at Norman. They attended the morning session, at which time the OIPA officers for next year were elected.

A luncheon was also held for them in the Student Union. In the afternoon session, they heard some guest speakers and the ratings on weeklies from all over the state were given. The Quill Weekly was rated "with highest honors."

After the work and worries were over, the year was brought to an end with an Annual staff banquet at the Youngblood Hotel.

Although a lot of work went into the publishing of the Quill Annual and weeklies, the students really enjoyed it and will never forget the experiences and fun they had in doing it.

Commencement

—BY—

Kay Dickey, Rita Turner and Earl Jane Whisler

Announcements, name cards and Quill Annuals were ordered; Senior honor sheets filled out; names for the diplomas decided upon; the Royal Party for the May Fete elected; measurements for caps and gowns taken and the Seniors were ready to begin the annual spring functions held in their honor.

The curtain again rose on the Senior play, April 29. The selected play this year was "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." When the final curtain of the last scene went down, it finished another contribution to the many events of the Seniors. This successful play was under the direction of Hudson Wilcox.

The swirl of multi-colored formals and the soft music of Johnny Batten transformed the American Legion Hall into a fairyland on Friday, May 2. The occasion was the annual Junior-Senior Prom, sponsored this year by the Enid Trade Council.

Cars were asked for, everyone grabbed their bathing suits, and headed for Lake Hellums to celebrate the Senior Skip Day, May 15. They had waited two years for the event to take place. The Skip Day is sponsored by the high school with the help of the faculty.

The band began the slow processional, the color guard appeared and following in royal splendor was the May Queen, her Herald and Attendants. Rainbow colors were reflected in the lake, on Tuesday evening, May 20, as the Senior class followed their queen around the lake. Featured on the program were selections from the chorus, the band and the winding of the May Poles and the highlight of the program was the crowning of Queen Dolores Morgan by Herald Claude Turner.

In front of the high school, May 23, attended by the students and faculty, the last will and testimony of the class of '52 was read. The Senior class president presented the gold link of the chain to the incoming Senior president. To complete the event the traditional ivy was planted beside the building.

Laughter could be heard coming from the Education Building on the evening of May 23. The event that was taking place was the Junior-Senior reception. After a program was presented by the Juniors in honor of the Seniors, refreshments were served, and another Junior-Senior reception was added to the history of Enid High School.

Sunday, May 25, the Senior class, in their caps and gowns, attended the impressive Baccalaureate service at the First Baptist Church. Dr. M. F. Ewton, pastor of the church, delivered the annual sermon, to the graduating class.

Amidst families and friends one final meeting of the Senior class of 1952, held in the Education Building at 8 p.m. on Thursday, May 29, was the Commencement Exercises. As the beginning strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" were heard, the blue robed Seniors filed to their seats as their last act as students of Enid High School began. As their names were called, they passed across the stage, received their diplomas and left the stage as graduates of Enid High School.

To Mr. and Mrs. Enid

—BY—

Nancy Wagner

Here it is at last, THE QUILL MAGAZINE. It is a book of work to many, fun to some, and memories to all. It makes possible the feat of changing the future into the past, the todays into the yesterdays and present thoughts to old ones.

The high school life of all ends—it fades away into that treasure chest that everyone possesses, whether rich or poor—the memory. It goes fast, but all can retain it with the sweet savor of the still living recollections of bygone events.

When the seats were all taken at the Football games, and the loud roar of the crowd urged our team on to win, when a pat on the back and a word of encouragement was needed, the people who made Enid, "a greater Enid" were always standing by.

Last September when students gathered ads to go in the Football Program, the business men and women of Enid pitched in full force to make the games more enjoyed by all, by making possible these programs, free of charge.

Realizing that all the students would not care for the sock hops held, some of the churches of Enid joined together to sponsor a "play night" at which games were played and refreshments served.

In November during American Education Week Open House was held in all the schools. The great interest the people in Enid have for their schools was shown by the masses of people who turned out to view the buildings and the work done by the pupils. They were proud of their schools and seemed glad to be able to help, each in his own way to support that great institution—education.

Students of Enid High were grateful to see the work wearied public lend their undying vitality to our basketball games. They not only helpd make this year's team a champion one by missing other things to attend the games so the boys would know their home town was behind them, but their showing faith in "their team" gave each the confidence needed to make those victory points. This confidence made the boys, state champions and Paul Geymann "Coach of the Year."

Taking time from their many holiday activities, the people of Enid filled Convention Hall to capacity to hear the schools blend together in one of the greatest and biggest singing events of the year. The performing students appreciated the attendance of their parents and friends and were thrilled at the applause they gave.

It was a repeated full house when the band presented the "Symphony, Song, and Swing" concert. The cooperation shown by the American Dance Studio clearly painted the picture of how the business people do their part to help the schoool.

These far from one-interest participants not only helped on these events but also turned their efforts to making all the dramatic presentations of ol' EHS better. The costumes and props were furnished by the stores, and the town itself always came up with the first nighters.

With the lovely time of the year comes the May Fete. Its beautiful flowers, formals, and other array could not be missed at the park! It is one of the greatest family affairs of Enid High, everyone from Baby to Grandad comes to see the spectacular sight.

Graduation—the hope and dream of every Mother and Dad for their children. Enid stores always are on hand with congratulations and gifts for the lucky diploma receivers. They add much to the spirit the graduates feel, as the end of the high school life rolls around.

A high school career is so full of so many wonderful things and experiences that we, as students, sometimes forget the people behind us who though they never come out in the open are always around with a helping hand and willing feet. The people of Enid are behind their students and faculty members one hundred per cent, and we, as representatives of Enid High School, want to thank each and every person for making our high school lives what they have been.
